LYNCHINGS DECREASE

New York, May 3—No lynching has been reported anywhere in the United States in the first four months of 1928, and all records have been broken there, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced today. James Weldon Johnson, secretary, said that in every one of the 20 years previous in which the association has been keeping records, there has always been one and often several lynchings during a similar period.

MODERN YOUTH DEFENDED BY DR. CADMAN

Tribute Paid Young People of Today in Interview Here

FAVORS EARLY MARRIAGE

Views on Various Subjects Discussed with Reporter by Noted Preacher

BY FRANCES JENNINGS
Star Staff Writer

"Youth of today is more honest, more open minded than ever before. I have great hopes for young people of the present day."

Such was the tribute paid the much abused and so-called jazz-mad younger generation by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman when interviewed by one of the "young hopefuls" last night at Hotel Harding.

The statement might be taken purely as complimentary—for the interview took place at the psychological moment—the dinner hour—when even a minister is inclined to be overly optimistic as he sips his tea and takes pleasure in the very material thing which is the secret of life, in short, a meal.

The sincerity of his compliment was established, however, when Dr. Cadman went on to say that the few faults of modern youth rest largely with their parents and upbringing, and that the nation owes any moral deterioration it may have suffered to the "youths of 50 and 60" whom Dr. Cadman spoke of as "mutton masquerading as lamb."

"Marry Young," He Says

Dr. Cadman further advised youth to marry young, raise wholesome and, if circumstances permit, large families, and settle down into the homogeneous life which is the basis of any fine union. Of companionate marriage he had little to say dismissing it with the words, "it lowers the moral standards of marriage."

"The unusually large number of divorces owe their origin to the unusually large number of ill-suited marriages," Dr. Cadman said. "It is the lack of friendship and comradeship in marriage, the lack of a desire to share burden-bearing and the sorrows as well as joys of life that bring about divorce. Often women expect too much of their men, too many luxuries, and man is inclined to retreat. Only in happy marriages, unions of love and companionship, can the large number of divorces be lessened."

"The nation's great need, as a whole, is for better enforcement of law," Dr. Cadman emphatically declared. "We are not a law-abiding people. I regard the problem of law enforcement as the greatest home question of America today."

"In her relationships with other nations, America's greatest mission is the bringing about of world peace, a

CRANE OPERATOR IS FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Joseph F. Holliday Victim of Strange Accident at Local Factory

When workmen at the Commercial Steel Castings Co. plant climbed into the operating cab of an electric crane at 4:30 o'clock this morning to learn why they had received no response to their signals, they found Joseph F. Holliday, 862 Davids-st, operator of the crane, lying unconscious on the floor.

Assuming that he had come in contact with some of the electrical apparatus in the cab, the men applied the Shaffer artificial respiration treatment and when firemen from the central station, who had been summoned, arrived with a pulmotor, Holliday had recovered sufficiently to sit up on the floor of the cab.

The manner in which the accident occurred is a mystery, according to Holliday, who said he was operating the crane in the usual manner when he was suddenly knocked unconscious.

A severe burn about the mouth indicated that he had unconsciously come in contact with the current, or in falling, his mouth had struck some of the exposed electrical apparatus. His condition was reported as improved at his home this morning.

SHERIFF HALTS ESCAPE PLOT

Men Arrested in Marion Held in Solitary Confinement at Urbana

James Sparks 25, and Harry Ebelsizor, 25, who were arrested here in February in a spectacular capture made in W. Centerst, were placed in solitary confinement at the Champaign County jail at Urbana, today, when the sheriff reported that they were making preparations to effect an escape.

The sheriff, Pearl D. Jones, stated that nine hacksaws were found in their cell and that two bars on the cell window had been partially sawed through.

Sparks and Ebilsizor are charged with having been implicated in the theft of an automobile at Urbana. When captured here, they were riding in the stolen car, it is alleged.

Local police received a message from Urbana requesting them to watch for the two men, reported to be headed this way and when they arrived here they were met on W. Centerst by Police Sergeant Claude Wertz and Herman Irey, a special deputy sheriff.

The pair at first showed tight but were subdued when Irey jumped into their machine and covered them with a revolver.

Several weeks ago one of the pair was injured in a fall from his cell at the Urbana jail.

Revocation of Mine Union Charters of 17 Locals May Lead to Factional Strife

New "All Ohio" State Organization Is Prospect Following First Trouble; Leaders Dissatisfied with Lewis Administration; Seek Change in Policy

Bellaire May 3—The voluntary surrender of a number of local union charters and strife between the two factions of the United Mine Workers of America organization in eastern Ohio loomed today as a result of the revocation of the charters of 17 local unions by Lee Hall, Ohio president.

At St. Clairsville, it was reported, over 10 local unions were ready to surrender their charters to the national organization in order to perfect a new "all Ohio" state organization, independent of the United Mine Workers.

Favor Change

Many miners openly stated that they were highly in favor of a change in policy, that they were dissatisfied with John L. Lewis' administration, and that under present conditions, their "hands are tied" in negotiations with operators. With a state union, they said, negotiations with Ohio operators could be opened, a wage scale perfected, and work resumed immediately.

Followers of the John Brophy "save the union" movement, which caused the ousting of the 17 locals because they refused to expel them, said they would not submit to expulsion from the union without a fight. Hundreds of thousands of dollars had been paid the national organization and nothing received in return but idleness while non-union coal fields operated, leaders of the expelled unions alleged.

Second Ousting

The expulsion of the unions in subdistrict five was the second ousting by the United Mine Workers district executive board. Oral Daugherty was ousted as president of the Nelsonville subdistrict on charges of insubordination and disloyalty on April 23. Several hundred union men were dismissed with him on similar charges.

Official notice of the revocation of the 17 charters of the local organizations had not yet been received today and the expelled members were awaiting its arrival. They said they would meet in convention on May 9 whether or not an official call was made by subdistrict United Mine Workers of American officials.

In the meantime, coal mine operators were preparing to launch mining operations after having been idle from one to two years. Many were at work at the Caldwell mine of the Cambridge Collieries Co. and the Imperial mine of the Forsythe Coal Co. in Noble County.

LIEUT. THOMAS STILL ALOFT IN HIS PLANE

Must Remain in Air Until Friday Night To Break Record

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 3—Lieut. Royal H. Thomas, who went aloft alone in the Bellanca monoplane Reliance at 12:30 p. m. yesterday in an attempt to better the world's endurance flight record, still was in the air today noon. He was flying at a height of about 2,000 feet over Mitchell Field and messaged watchers on the field that the plane was functioning perfectly.

At 12:30 p. m. today Thomas had been aloft for 24 hours. To break the mark established by Eddie Stinson and George Haldeman at Jacksonville, Fla., a few weeks ago he will have to stay aloft 54 hours, 20 minutes and 30 seconds, or one hour longer than the present record. To do this he must stay in the air until 7:50 p. m. Friday.

THIRD PARTY REPUDIATED

Senator Reed Embarrassed by Action of His California Worker

Washington May 3—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chief opponent of Gov. Al Smith for the Democratic presidential nomination, emphatically repudiated today any suggestion that he become identified with a third party movement in the event of Smith's nomination at Houston.

Obviously embarrassed by the action of one of his California campaign workers in addressing a third-party inquiry to Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, Reed sent the following telegram to Daniels.

"I know nothing whatever about Wilbur Legetter's proposition for a third party movement except what was contained in the morning newspapers. I am in no manner responsible for his statement nor do I approve it. I shall go forward with my campaign. I am a Democrat. It is the duty and the mission of the Democratic party to wipe out corruption and restore decent and popular government."

BRIEF IS FILED BY LOGAN GAS IN RATE FIGHT

Requests State Utilities Commission To Fix Permanent Valuation

Counsel for the Logan Gas Co. today filed with the State Utilities Commission at Columbus a brief containing argument in support of their motion requesting the commission to proceed at once to fix a permanent valuation of the company's properties as a basis for new rates.

The motion was submitted at the public hearing before the commission here April 27, last, after presentation of rebuttal testimony by the company. The Logan Gas Co. rate case was taken under advisement by the commission. The case originated about three years ago.

The brief filed today was prepared by Attorneys Freeman T. Eagleson and Clarence D. Laylin, both of Columbus. It embodied argument in support of the contention that Ohio laws apply in rate cases of this nature "neither provide for, nor contemplate, the announcement of a tentative value by the commission but is plain in its mandatory provision that the commission shall complete its investigation and announce what, in its opinion, is the proper rate."

To Study Brief

Assistant Attorney General Grant T. Mouser, Jr., Marion, one of the counsel for the numerous cities and rural communities which protested to the commission against the increased rates proposed by the Logan Gas Co., today indicated that he will study the brief filed today by company's counsel before deciding whether the protestants will file a reply brief.

Members of the commission have indicated that the commission in all probability, will follow the customary practice of first fixing a tentative valuation. At the hearing April 27, Mouser vigorously opposed the company's proposal that the commission deviate from this practice.

$2,500 LOSS IN FIRE AT CAREY BANK BUILDING SAVED THROUGH FIREMEN'S WORK

Three Towns Send Help to Wyandot County Village's Laddies

ORIGIN UNDETERMINED

Seven Thousand Bushels of Wheat, 3,500 Bushels of Oats in Bin

(Special to The Star)

Carey, May 3—Four departments responded to a call for assistance when fire destroyed the large grain elevator, coal elevator, seed barn and ice house belonging to the Carey Mill & Elevator Co. here at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

The loss is estimated at between $75,000 and $80,000.

Considerable damage was done by the intensive heat which caused a number of plate glass windows in the National Bank Building and the Gast Hot Line to break, and stock in the F. H. Frederick Grocery Store, was badly damaged by water. Only the efforts of the fire departments saved the bank building which is located just across an alley from the mill, from catching fire a number of times. Furniture and other equipment with the exception of a safe were removed from the building, and business was suspended for today.

Four Departments

Departments from Findlay, Upper Sandusky and Fostoria aided the Carey Department in fighting the blaze. The Fostoria Department, which came a distance of more than 15 miles, made the run in 18 minutes.

Clarence Gressler, a member of the Fostoria Department sustained severe injuries when he stepped on a large nail which ran completely through his foot, while engaged in fighting the fire.

Starts in Shaft

The fire was discovered by Ray Snyder, night operator for the Big Four Railroad, and Marshall O'Connor, who was at the depot. As nearly as can be determined the blaze started in the elevator shaft and spread quickly through the entire building.

Manager D. C. Henry and other members of the company, together with the fire chiefs, are unable to determine the origin of the blaze as there had been no fire in the building.

The bins contained about 7,000 bushels of wheat, about 3,500 bushels of oats, a car load of flour, and a quantity of bran and rye. The coal plant, which was erected about two years ago, held between five and six hundred tons of coal, which is still burning.

Landmark of City

The mill is one of the landmarks of the city, having been erected in 1866 by Enos and William Wonder and was the second mill to be built in the county. It was remodeled a few years ago and equipped with new machinery. This is the second spectacular fire to strike this city recently. A week ago the Carey Porcelain Plant was destroyed with a property loss of $125,000.

IN YOUR GARDEN

THE GARDEN OF FLAVORS

More and more the development of culinary art calls for the use of what are known to recipes as the "sweet herbs." Chervil is frequently mentioned in important recipes although it is a comparatively unknown herb in American gardens. It has something of the flavor of parsley and is grown in the same manner. A packet of seed will give an ample supply. Plant in rows a foot apart with other spring vegetables. The curled form is the best.

Parsley is a regular standby and every gardener has a few plants of it. It is slow to germinate and should be sown early. Give the plants plenty of room to get the best quality of leaves. Too often they are allowed to crowd each other in the row and the leaves are small and do not develop the handsome moss appearance they will show if given a chance to develop. Six inches apart is about the right distance.

Shallots are frequent concomitants of dishes of foreign parentage and the American cook contents himself with use of onions. The shallot is not a young onion but a close relative. Buy a few bulbs of shallots and have the plants at hand in the garden. Garlic is in northern gardens is not much of a success as it becomes too harsh. In the more southerly sections it may be grown as readily as onions.

PARSLEY IS A REGULAR STANDBY

Basil, sweet marjoram, and the savories are other seasoning herbs easily grown from seed and ready to pick during the summer and to dry for winter use.

For the mint to go with the spring lamb or to use in other delicacies, plants should be purchased. It is hardy and soon makes a good-sized patch. Spearmint or peppermint will do equally well for the home mint supply.

Sage is the old standby for poultry dressing. It is an ornamental grass-leaved plant with blue foliage. A few plants will give an ample supply. The leaves are picked when about half grown and dried and powdered. Half a dozen plants established will make a pretty border and furnish a plentiful supply of foliage. The fresh dried sage is much better flavor than the old leaves in the market that are of uncertain age.

HOUSE "FARM BLOC" FIGHTS TO SAVE BILL

Equalization Fee, Heart of McNary-Haugen Measure, Stricken Out

Washington, May 3—Severely jarred but still grimly determined, the House "farm bloc" fought today with its back to the wall to save the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill from defeat.

As the situation stood today the equalization fee—declared by farm organizations spokesmen to be the heart of the measure—is stricken out. In its place is a bill somewhat akin to the farm relief proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

Backers of the bill declared that the House would reverse its action of yesterday, when a vote of 141 to 120 it adopted the bill of Representative Aswell, Democrat, of Louisiana, as a substitute for the first section of the McNary-Haugen bill.

The parliamentary tangle created by the unexpected action was still unsnarled as the House prepared to renew the fight over the measure today. Under the machinery of the House the action was taken in committee of the whole, with Representative Mapes, Republican, of Michigan, as presiding officer instead of Speaker Longworth. Much depends upon Mapes' decision on the parliamentary situation.

The action came with dramatic suddenness, although Representative Aswell who, with Representative Fort, Republican, of New Jersey, has been leading the fight against the bill, had previously announced his intention to move to substitute his own measure.

Don't Squeeze Blackheads —Dissolve Them

Squeezing out blackheads makes large, ugly pores. The safe and sane way to get rid of these blemishes is to dissolve them. Get one ounce of Calomite powder from your drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub over the blackheads, and every one big or little, will disappear at once.

Women Advised To Talk More to Become Slimmer

Chicago, May 3—"Talk and grow thin" is the latest "reducing" slogan. This is the latest advice dietitians here to the long-suffering fat men and women.

Miss Ida Jean Kain, who has been conducting a clinic here, is responsible for the latest formula for reducing. Here's the way Miss Kain has it figured out:

Eat and nobody will notice that you are merely toying with your food. Entertainingly and your hostess will notice that the pate de fois gras was neglected and the whipped cream almost passed by.

The average American woman feels obliged to eat if she is anybody socially, and the result is the present figure of American womanhood. Hostesses set delightful dainties in front of guests who have been starving themselves in the fastenesses o ftheir own pantries and the guests feel obliged to eat.

"The decline in conversation at the dinner table has been responsible for fat. Whether dining at home or with friends, the average Americans sit and bolt their foods in silence, and the calories mount.

"And the more silence envelopes the dinner tables of the country, the faster the waistlines bulge. Having nothing to say, the husband consumes twice as much steak and potatoes as he needs, and the wife takes a second helping of dessert."

Other professional enemies of fat among the Chicago physicians and dieticians have rallied to the support of Miss Kain. Dieticians at hospitals have discovered that nurses can interest patients in talking and make them forget the lack of potatoes au gratin and spare ribs, which are not included on the invalid menu.

All the diet lists so carefully compiled are useless, according to Miss Kain, unless fat people develop the habit of talking while they eat. The subject of conversation, she suggests, should be pleasant, in order that the diner may have the proper assimilation of food, a point important in keeping down fat.

Talk and Reduce

In order to promote a happy frame of mind for diners, the "talk and reduce" advocates favor light social topics, with repartee and jibes, they say.

"Heavy" topics, such as the disarmament squabble, unemployment, or the family finances are barred. Poltics is taboo, because it results in arguments and fat producing indigestion.

Hhere is the diet Iss Kain recommends with the conversation:

Eliminate carbohydrates and fat and cut down on the amount of food.

Drink plenty of water.

Never go hungry. If your diet leaves you feeling hungry, take another helping of lettuce or a tomato, but don't eat pastries.

Chained To Chair By Rheumatic Pain—Little Green Capsule Frees Him From Agony

Often In 5 Days Even Tenderness Is Gone Says Henney & Cooper.

Men and women who were bent nearly double — whose joints were swollen and inflamed — whose very existence was just one continuous torturing trial have watched with wonder their return to physical fitness and felt the glorious relief of a body free from aches and pains simply by putting their faith in the "little green capsule" known from coast to coast as Allenrhu Number 2.

These little green capsules go after the swelling and the pain in the right way—the knock-out way. One little capsule an hour for the first 10 hours; then continue as directed until every little twinge and every bit of tenderness is gone.

Just ask for Allenrhu Number 2—Substitutes and imitations may be offered you but remember, it's "the little green capsule" that is turning the trick and bringing joy to thousands of Rheumatic sufferers, so insist on Allenrhu No. 2.

Henney & Cooper or any reputable druggist in America will be glad to supply you.—Adv.

Now! meal time is a happy event

"IT is all so wonderful, I can hardly believe my eyes. When I think how badly you used to feel—didn't want anything to eat—perhaps sometimes a little grouchy and miserable, and just driving yourself by main force, I almost shudder. I knew it worried you, too. You seemed to feel as though you were slipping. Then one day you brought home a bottle of S.S.S. and told me you were going to give it a trial. That was only a few weeks ago. Today you look like a new person. Your appetite is keen, your flesh is firm, and your whole being seems to radiate happiness and I am happy too, because you are well and strong again."

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong; and your nerves become steady.

Marion's City Water Found Absolutely Pure in Analysis Made at State Department

Report from Ohio Health Official Is Submitted at Meeting of Local Board; Water Softening Getting Satisfactory Results

Marion's city water supply was given a clear bill of purity by F. H. Waring, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, in a report of an analysis to Dr. W. J. Weiser, city health commissioner, submitted by Weiser at the meeting of the board of health yesterday afternoon.

Persistent reports received by the health commissioner early last month from persons who complained they had been made ill by the city water after the softening process had been started, prompted Weiser to submit a sample to the State Department of Health for analysis.

In his report to Dr. Weiser, the state engineer said the analysis indicated that the water was of satisfactory sanitary quality.

School Work Finished

The health commissioner also stated in his report that with the examination of 35 school children at the Lincoln, Greenwood, Forest Lawn and Vernon Heights buildings during April, the examination of children of school age for this year had been completed and that plans were now being made for the annual examination of children of pre-school age. The examinations, Dr. Weiser said in his report, will be held at the various school buildings this month and he will be assisted by members of the Marion County Medical Society.

Examination of 35 employes of the dairy farms in the county during the month was announced in the commissioner's report. Several blood samples sent to the state laboratory for examination were returned negative, he said. He also reported several cases of measles, one of scarlet fever and one of diphtheria for the month.

SEEKS ELIMINATION OF OPEN CISTERNS

City Official Wages Campaign Against Death-Traps Here

Warfare on the open cistern, death-trap for a number of small children in this city during the last several years, continues to be waged by C. M. Tobin, city sanitary commissioner. In his report for April, submitted to the Board of Health at its monthly meeting yesterday afternoon, the commissioner said he had discovered 18 open cisterns during the month, for all of which he had ordered substantial covers.

An ordinance passed by City Council last year, endows the commissioner with the authority to place under arrest the owner of any property who refuses or fails to comply with the order to close an open cistern. A fine of not less than $25 or more than $100 gives teeth to the ordinance. Tobin stated yesterday that it is only occasionally that he meets with resistance on the part of a property owner.

The commissioner also reported he had ordered three business places cleaned up during the month, had answered seven sick calls, ordered the cleaning up of six premises, fumigated one home for cancer and three for tuberculosis, had arranged for the burial of a negro child and had investigated and ordered remedied numerous violations of the city sanitary laws.

Rum Fleet Commanders Warned After British Protest

Washington, May 3—The invasion of the Port of St. Georges, Bermuda, by two rum chasers of the United States Coast Guard six weeks ago, which brought a note of protest from the British Government, has resulted in a warning to commanders of the rum fleet that they must confine their activities to the territorial waters of the United States, as defined in the special anti-smuggling treaties.

Three incidents in as many months wherein United States patrol vessels overstepped the rules of international law in Caribbean waters led to a vigorous representation by the British ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, when the destroyers Cuyahoga and Travis, out of New York, shoved into St. Georges unannounced early in March.

DATE ON DATE FOR AVIATORS

Hours of Transoceanic Fliers Crowded with Receptions and Visits

New York, May 3—Maj. James Fitzmaurice, Baron Gunther Von Huenefeld and Capt. Hermann Koehl were in for a busy day here today.

Following their arrival from Washington, the fliers were to attend a luncheon given by the Merchants' Association at the Hotel Astor. In the afternoon they are to visit several newspaper plants, the National City Bank and the New York Edison Company's power plant at East River and Fourteenth-st. They also will call on Lindsay Crawford, Irish Free State representative.

The will attend the gathering of the United Seamen Societies at the Metropolitan Opera House tonight.

The fliers arrived at Miller Field, Staten Island, at 11:35 a. m., in the Junkers monoplane F-13, sister ship of the Bremen. They left Washington at 9:28 a. m.

The fliers were met by members of the mayor's committee, who were to bring them to Manhattanin automobiles.

City Hardly Astir

Washington was hardly astir when the F-13 rose in the early May sunshine. Only a group of army fliers, mechanics and newspaper reporters witnessed the fliers' departure, a fact which was not unpleasing to Baron Von Huenefeld, Captain Koehl, and Major Fitzmaurice, for crowds and mobs have been their lot since arriving in the United States.

The present plans of the trio are to remain in New York, as quietly as possible, until the inauguration of their American tour on May 9. They have hardly had an hour's relaxation since they were taken off Greenely Island 10 days ago and catapaulted into a series of receptions and experiences such as only transatlantic aerial pioneers could merit.

TWO PERSONS NEAR DEATH AFTER CRASH

Airplane Crashes into Tree While Flying Over Chicago

Chicago, May 3—Two persons were reported dying today and a third was seriously injured as the result of an airplane crash.

Those believed fatally injured are: Miss Dare Montgomery, 24, and Eugene Applebaum, 24.

Dr. Milton H. Weir, pilot of the plane, was seriously hurt.

The trio had gone for a pleasure trip over the city. They were 600 feet above the Desplaines River when the plane was seen to go into a nose dive. It crashed into a tree, hung on the boughs for an instant and then toppled to the river's edge.

Dr. Weir, owner of the plane, was an unlicensed pilot. Miss Montgomery was a Galesburg, Ill., school teacher.

Lieut Gerald Sneard, the pilot, recently graduated from Kelly Field, Texas, was seriously hurt. Dewey A. Gross, 27, a passenger was also probably fatally injured.

FLOOD OF PROPOSALS AT NATIONAL CONGRESS

Cleveland, May 3—Many proposals were to be presented today to the National Congress of Parents and Teachers in convention here, among them being a request that the organization go on record for regulation and supervision of night clubs and road houses.

Six Counties To Attend Legion Baseball Meeting Here

CARL EBERT NAMED CHAIRMAN OF SIXTH SUB-DISTRICT POSTS

Plans Will Be Made for County Tournament for Amateur Players

BY CARL K. MELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

Marion will be the central meeting place Sunday afternoon of American Legion Post commanders, athletic directors and county chairmen of the American and National League amateur baseball tournament.

Representatives of American Legion Posts in six counties will meet at the local legion dugout at 1:30 o'clock to discuss plans for the county and sub-district tourneys which will get under way some time in June. Counties that will meet here are Wyandot, Crawford, Marion, Morrow, Union and Delaware.

The entire state has been divided into 16 sub-districts of which the above named counties are sixth. Four sub-districts compose each district with Marion being located in the southwest.

Carl F. Ebert Marion, has been named chairman of this district and will have charge of the meeting. He is also a member a member of the state committee.

All entries, according to Ebert, must be in by May 15 making it important for all Legion Posts to act on the matter at once. The district championship games will be played on July 13 and 14. Cities where this event will be held will be designated at a later date. Sub-district finals must be completed by July 1 and it is probable that most of the contests in this section will be played during the middle of June.

To be eligible to participate in regional or national championship contests Ohio must have 229 entered when the closing date. A runner up will be named in each district to be sent to other tourneys in case the winning team is unable to attend.

Whiting Stables Off to Bad Start This Seaeon

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

THE powerful Harry Payne Whitney stable is off to its worst start in horse history.

The gallopers of Whitney were expected to cut a wide swath from the first wagle tap in Maryland. But up to present writing most of the gallopers carrying the brown and blue silks of Whitney have ended up in the "also ran" department with monotonous regularity.

All of which has had a devastating effect upon public bankrolls. For the public, through the years, has played the Whitney horses with almost blind faith. There are reasons for this faith.

(1) Whitney's only orders to his jockies are and always have been, "Ride to win." Every horse that he has ever owned has been sent to the post with only one thought in Whitney's mind "winning."

(2) The public knows that Whitney never keeps racing culls and that the horses he sends to the races always are royally bred, and trained to perfection.

When the public knows that a horse is fit and ready for a good race, and that his owner is trying to win, then, of course, it plays that horse with confidence.

Luck Not Whitney's

But luck has not been Whitney's this year. His two-year-olds, down in Maryland, are good—but they have run afoul of some potential champions in horses like Too High, Wrap, Rapid Transit and others. His older horses either have been outfooted with the barriers rise, or have been beaten by horses that suddenly showed startling improvement.

Of course, as the season advances, the Whitney horses again may come into their own—as they have through the other years—and run the Whitney winnings up to figures that may again land him the championship of the year, or, failing in that, bring him close to the top in the matter of stable winnings for the year.

Whitney started off in 1927 in a way that made it look as if he might smash the world's record for stable winnings in one year. His Bostonian won the $50,000 Preakness and his Whiskers nabbed the Kentucky Derby. His other horses picked up big stakes during the Spring and into mid Summer and just when it looked as if Whitney's racers would garner $400,000 (not to $450,000), bad luck began.

Again and again the Whitney horses were beaten, by noses and necks, in the huge stake events at Belmont, Saratoga and later in Maryland. The cyclone dash of the Whitney horses was halted and they couldn't smash the old mark.

Wins 61 Races

But they succeeded, by winning 61 races and plenty of seconds and thirds, in earning $720,359 for their master, which was more than any other stable turned in for 1927.

That marked the fourth year, since Harry Payne Whitney has been campaigning "on his own," that he ranked first among the owners.

For more than 10 years Whitney has raced one of the most powerful stables in turf history in America. For several years, beginning about 10 years ago, he encountered terrific competition from Commander J. K. L. Ross, of Canada, who won the stable championship several times because he had such great horses as Sir Barton and Billy Kelly running in his colors.

When the Ross stable slipped, the Rancocas Stable came on to give Whitney a royal battle. Possessed of Zev, Grey Lag, Mad Hatter and horses of that starry caliber, they beat Whitney to the title for several years.

Back With Ruth

But in 1926 Whitney came back with a rush winning over $700,000 and he annexed first ranking again last year with $720,000. After which, hopes were high for 1928. But up to this time nothing has happened to warrant them.

Whitney, who always could be counted upon to bring at least six whirlwind two-year-olds to the races each springtime, has shown none this season, that are in the class of Whitney's fledgling stars of other years.

He has some fast horses entered for the Derby and the Preakness. One or the other may win. But there's terrific competition. The very fact that Winter book operators rank the Whitney colts and fillies far down in the lists shows that they are regarded only as having an outside chance to win those classics.

Without great two-year-olds and great three-year-olds a stable cannot expect to gain any top honors as to winnings. Because Whitney has shown no potential champion among the two and three year olds, his chance of ranking first in 1928 are rather remote.

M'QUADE IS DROPPED FROM GIANTS; MAY SEEK COURT ACTION

Treasurer of Club for 10 Years Given Air To Preserve Harmony

New York, May 3—One of these days the New York Giants are going to have a real baseball club. Rogers Hornsby, star second baseman, was practically presented to the Boston Braves as a gift "in the interests of harmony." And now Judge Francis X. McQuade, for 10 years treasurer of the club, has been dropped for the same reason. According to the owner of locals of the Giants, McQuade did not favor the Hornsby deal.

But there will be no harmony as far as Judge McQuade and Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, are concerned. In a formal statement the judge threatened court action against Stoneham and promised to make sensational revelations. He said Stoneham had disregarded his rights as a minority stockholder.

Judge McQuade will continue as a stockholder of the club. Leo J. Bondy, club attorney, was elected treasurer in his place. Stoneham was elected president; Manager John McGraw, vice president, and James Tierney, secretary.

OHIO STATE SPRING SQUADS TO BE BUSY

Three Teams Will Perform at Columbus Friday and Saturday

Columbus, May 3—Three of the four Ohio State University spring sport squads will perform Friday and Saturday on the home grounds. The week end is one of the heaviest of the season for Ohio State athletes.

With two Big Ten defeats against it, the Varsity nine draws the heaviest assignment of the week with two games here against Illinois, which has lost only one conference game so far. The Friday game will start at 4 o'clock and the Saturday battle at 3:30. It is probable that Harry Sutton will draw the box assignment for one game while either Klink, Sill or Blanchard will do mound duty in the other for the home talent.

Preceding the Saturday baseball game, the Buckeye track squad will take on its ancient rival Michigan in a hopeful effort to defeat the Wolverines. For the first time in years, Ohio State has a chance to down the Ann Arbor crew.

After a remarkable showing last week at the Pennsylvania and Drake Relays, Coach Castellano has a number of sure point winners to depend on, but recognizes the perennial strength of Michigan in dual meet competition. On paper, Michigan has a slight advantage that can only be overcome by a strenuous fight in a number of doubtful events that can swing either way.

Only the tennis team has an out-of-town engagement, it being scheduled to take on Purdue in the Boilermakers' lair Saturday. After downing Illinois in the first local Big Ten engagement of the year, the Buckeye golfers will play Wittenberg Saturday morning at the Scioto Country Club. The same line-up, consisting of Sargent, Loop Shane, and Parks that defeated Illinois, will perform.

HAGEN TRAINING FOR BRITISH OPEN TITLE

American Golfer To Make "Comeback" Effort After Compston Victory

London, May 3—Walter Hagen, crack American golfer who was beaten so badly by Archie Compston in their match for a purse of $2,750, will make the supreme effort of his career "to come back" when the qualifying rounds for the British Open Golf Championship begin at Sandwich next Monday.

Since his defeat at Moor Park last Saturday Hagen has been practicing and has been making every effort to regain his old time form.

Final play of the British Open to be held on the links of the Royal St. George's club will take place amid some of the most beautiful surroundings in Britain. Even the club house bears the marks of old time country life, for it is a pretty old Kentish farm house set among a clustering clump of trees. Although it has been altered and enlarged the charm of age and quietude endures.

MT. GILEAD WINS

Mt. Gilead, May 3—The local High school baseball team were given their second defeat in two days last night when they were blanked by Edison. The victors scored seven runs.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

BROOKLYN SOUTHPAW HOLDS DOWN GIANTS, BUT LOSES CONTEST

New York Teams Score 19 Home Runs in 13 Games

New York, May 3—Jumbo Elliott, Brooklyn southpaw allowed the New York Giants only two hits in seven innings yesterday, but both were home runs and gave the league leaders a 2 to 1 victory, their third straight triumph over the battered Brooklynites.

The homers were made by John and Lindstrom. With 19 circuit clouts in 13 games, the Giants are the leading home run hitting outfit in the majors. The Chicago Cubs are second with 14.

In his last previous starts, Elliott had held the Boston Braves to three hits in nine innings. He met his master yesterday in Larry Benton, who yielded but four hits.

Owen Carroll of Detroit held the White Sox to four hits, winning 7 to 1 and incidentally stopping Bill Cissell who had put away 15 consecutive games. Sam Gray, former Marksman who has won ten games for the St. Louis Browns, also allowed only four hits in whitewashing the Cleveland Indians 7 to 0. His victim was George Uhle, who had won four straight games.

Yanks Lose

After having won six straight games, New York Yankees were halted by two of their former playmates, Sad Sam Jones and Garland Braxton. The Washington Senators slugged their way to a 9 to 5 win over the champions after their own string of eight games. It was Washington's first victory over New York in six starts. The same stars helped to beat a mediocre team Cincinnati and Pittsburgh which they are tied for in the National League standing. The Reds scored in the ninth on Wilson's single, Frisch's double and Mays' two errors to defeat Pittsburgh 5 to 4. Walker's triple with the bases full and two outs in the ninth gave the Reds a 6 to 5 victory over Chicago.

Reds Best Cards

Yesterday the Reds found out the Cubs 9 to 5 on pitcher Joe Dawson's pitching. Walker's triple with the bases full and two outs in the ninth gave the Reds two runs to turn the game into a 6 to 5 victory. Cincinnati scored in the first inning on Critz' double, Pinel's single and Walker's double. Chicago scored in the second on Hornsby's double, but made no further runners except in one inning as the Reds scored 3 runs in the fifth on Walker's double, Allen's single and Critz' double with Chicago.

The Red Sox did not live to the Athletics' liking.

What Judge Landis means by "a larger field of service" is that he is to be paid more money.

Baseball To Settle Down

EAST-WEST BATTLES WILL BE SHOW-DOWN OF TEAM AUTHORITY

Series Will Test Whether First Division Teams Belong in Places

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, May 3—After giving its customary slapstick prelude of early April, major league baseball may be expected upon to settle down to legitimate roles in the next fortnight, beginning tomorrow with the first of the crosswest intersectional meetings. Always a show down of authority, the intersectional factor will serve its usual purpose this time in temporarily answering a few pertinent questions. For one thing, it may determine definitely and to all practical purposes whether clubs belong where they happen to find themselves today or merely are occupying first division positons by the process of "squatters' right."

For another, it may show just how far John McGraw can hope to go with his Giants this season. The club is setting the pace today in first place, regardless of injuries to O'Doul and Walker and the failure of Vic Aldridge to report. But it got where it is by trimming the Braves, Dodgers and Phillies at home and, if that kind has anything to Coogan's bluff is something that ought to be called.

Speed Is in West

All the speed of the National League, not barring the Giants, is in the west. Therefore, their next 16 ball games figure to prove just who has it—in addition to the customary four out of five.

The Giants open their western invasion at Cincinnati tomorrow. Then they go back to Pittsburgh jump over to Chicago and finish in St. Louis. They'll be getting real pitching again, not merely the kind of baseball they served up in 1925 when they chased the cardinals up. The Pirates apparently have come back from an indifferent start on the barrier and seem headed for first division. The Cubs aren't burning up the leaves, but the chances are they will be going at the time the Giants reach Chicago. The Cards are running pretty true to form.

Giants Recognized Contender

The Giants, of course, will be taken as recognized contender in each series. In those other western clubs, however, will be fattening on the Phillies as natural victims; the Braves, who are set up like a bull's eye with numerous illness, and the Dodgers, who are beginning to discover that opening requires a minimum of nine ball players, figure to tumble out of the first place.

With little help available from the other western clubs, the Giants will do very well to return home, running one-two, but the west will find the McGraw outfit hard to catch for a month or so. They'll be still in first place when it resumes the Polo Grounds again.

The Yankees, meanwhile, will be asked to meet the Red Sox and will reluctantly succeed. However, the Browns next stop will be Philadelphia and the Indians next the Yankee Stadium and the westerners at both places will have to show plenty.

A man could learn a great many things if he didn't think that he already knew them.

WOODS and WATERS by Homer Bow

FLOWER CONSERVATION

PRESERVATION of the beauties of the outdoors is close to the heart of every fisherman and lover of nature. The chap who takes his rod and reel out for a day in the open would not get great sport out of the day were he fishing in a brick lined pool with nothing but four blank walls around him, no matter how good the fishing happened to be.

Among nature's greatest gifts, to eyes of mankind, are the dainty flowers of spring. It has been the habit of man, for years and years, to pluck these flowers and carry them home. Children delight in gathering them.

But, in the face of disappearing outdoors, flowers and many other beauties are becoming scarcer and call for the attention of conservationists as well as other things. The instinct is born in children to gather these flowers. Soon after they are plucked, they wilt and wither and lose attractiveness, and as a result are tossed aside. Soon highways will be lined with discarded bouquets.

Could children and grown-ups for that matter, be taught to leave the quick-dying flowers in natural haunts, they would be enjoyed by many more and for many years to come. It seems as if a bit of education would obtain favorable results.

Flowers such as our "spring beauties" fade and wilt a few moments after they are broken from life-supporting roots, while there are others, as violets, which remain beautiful for days and are an attractive home decoration. There seems to be no great evil in taking these.

Instilling reverence for the beauties of nature among our children will be a great stride toward the conservation of all outdoors.

DUNN HAS HOPES OF DEMPSEY FIGHT FOR CLEVELAND MAULER

"Advised" by Rickard To Wait Until After Conference with Jack

Cleveland, May 3—Danny Dunn, manager of Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, has hopes of a Jack Dempsey-Risko match, despite persistent reports that Dempsey is through with the ring. Dunn returned from New York late Wednesday where he said he conferred with Promoter Tex Rickard.

"Rickard advised me not to make any definite plans until he has a conference with Dempsey when Jack comes to New York again," Dunn told Cleveland friends. "He also asked me if we'd like to take Jack Sharkey on for another bout."

Dunn said he told Rickard he preferred Dempsey but that "if Dempsey is really through, we might go through with another Sharkey fight."

BETTING SYSTEM AT NEW TRACK PLANNED

Test of Anti-Gambling Act Will Be Made at Cleveland

Cleveland, May 3—That horse racing may be instated in Cuyahoga County sometime next July was revealed here recently with the announcement made by Tommy McGinty, local sports promoter and owner of Maple Heights race track that a new $500,000 race track is nearing completion on the Geauga-Cuyahoga county line.

The running of horses on the new track this summer, it is believed, will provide a test of the anti gambling edict issued by County Sheriff Edward J. Hanratty, which stopped racing in this county two years ago.

McGinty when questioned on the system of betting to be used at his new track declared:

"That's a bridge we'll have to cross when we come to it. Our attorneys have gone over the matter very carefully. We have an entirely new plan and if there is any interference with us the authorities will have to interfere with every stock exchange in America. Our plan is similar to the plan used on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange and I doubt whether there will be any trouble."

GOES INTO TRAINING

New York, May 3—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, moved into training quarters today at Gus Wilson's place in Orangeburg, N. Y., where he will prepare for his defense of the title against Jimmy McLarnin at the Polo Grounds on May 17.

DIES IN CRASH

Chicago, May 3—Louis A. Bensinger, 71, millionaire head of a chain of billiard parlors and bowling alleys, is dead today from injuries received when run down by an automobile.

Blindfolded . . . in scientific test of leading Cigarettes, Mrs. Emily Post selects OLD GOLD

"Personally, I have never acquired a taste for tobacco. For most cigarettes seem to burn my tongue and sting my throat. The only time I ever smoke, therefore, is in courtesy to someone coming to my house, who would lay her accustomed cigarette aside unless I at least lit one, too.

"It seemed absurd, at first, that I should be chosen to attempt this blindfold test . . . except that never having become a smoker, my taste is extremely sensitive to the burning harshness of the average cigarette.

"But I was very much surprised to find that I had chosen OLD GOLD as being perceptibly smooth, stingless and pleasant to taste. In fact, I now quite easily understand why the OLD GOLD compartment in my general cigarette box must be so constantly refilled."

BANS LOT SCHEMES

Jacoby Issues Warning at Cleveland Board Meeting

A rule specifying that any operator or salesman engaging in a "free lot" scheme in the state would be refused a license forever, is to be promulgated by the Ohio Board of Real Estate Examiners, according to Chairman J. W. Jacoby of Marion.

Jacoby's announcement followed the closing meeting of the board at Cleveland yesterday, during which several cases involving brokers and allotment operators who were up for unethical advertising, were heard.

"We do not believe that offering of so-called 'free lots' as a means of obtaining prospective buyers for higher priced lots is unfair," Jacoby is here.

PLANS ERECTION OF BUSINESS BUILDING

Application for Permit Filed with City Commission by E. W. Granger

An application for permission to erect a business block on the southeast corner at the intersection of Davids and Woodlawn was presented by E. W. Granger to the City Planning Commission at its regular monthly meeting held in the office of Major Earl Hazen last night. Granger was advised by the commission to secure the signatures of property owners in the vicinity signifying their willingness to have the building erected.

J. C. Cornwell who operates a garage and automobile repair shop on Silver-st, was advised by the commission at the meeting last night that he must either move his shop into the "central" district or outside the city limits. An application filed by Cornwell to create an industrial zone where his shop is now located was turned down by the commission.

FLIERS PLAN 10-DAY AIR TOUR OF U. S.

No Ohio City on Route of Bremen Airmen; Six Cities Listed

Washington, May 3—Out of hundreds of invitations to visit cities, large and small, in various parts of the country, the Bremen transatlantic fliers have decided upon a 10-day aerial tour which will include receptions in but half a dozen cities in addition to New York and Washington already visited.

The trip will be made in the F-12, a sister-ship of the Bremen, in case it is impossible to get the Bremen to New York from Greenely Island, by May 9, when the trip begins.

The announcement of the tour from the German Embassy said it was impossible for the fliers to accept as many invitations as they would like because, "Messrs. Koehl, Fitzmaurice and Huenefeld desire to return home to receive the welcome from the people of Germany and Ireland and this makes a limitation of their sojourn in the United States imperative."

The itinerary follows:

Wednesday, May 9—Reception in Philadelphia.

Thursday, May 10—Flight to Chicago.

Friday, May 11—Reception in Chicago.

Saturday, May 12—Rest.

Sunday, May 13—Visit to Milwaukee.

Monday, May 14—Flight to St. Louis.

Tuesday, May 15—Reception in St. Louis.

Wednesday, May 16—Flight to Detroit.

Thursday, May 17—Reception in Detroit.

Friday, May 18—Flight to Boston.

Saturday, May 19—Reception in Boston.

SMITH'S VICTORY IS FURTHER EMPHASIZED

New York Governor's Edge Maintains Itself at 30,000 Votes

San Francisco, May 3—Gov. Al Smith's overwhelming victory in California's Democratic primary election was further emphasized today as tabulation of returns from the few remaining precincts proceeded.

While votes cast for Herbert Sole, Republican candidate on the primary slate, continued to pile up into a huge total well over the half million mark, Smith's edge over the combined poll of his Democratic opponents, Senators James A. Reed and Thomas J. Walsh, maintained itself at approximately 30,000.

Reed, running second to Governor Smith, had a lead over Walsh of approximately 13,000.

With tabulation complete in 7,720 precincts out of a total of 8,753 throughout the state, the revised vote count stood:

Hoover, (Republican) 530,194.
Smith, (Democrat) 128,762.
Reed, (Democrat) 56,828.
Walsh, (Democrat) 43,680.

All but four of the 58 counties in the state returned Smith victorious in the Democratic voting, on the basis of returns already tabulated. Reed won two counties, Walsh one, and the fourth registered only Republican votes.

SPRING IS FINALLY HERE, SIGNS SHOW

Straw Hats and First Corn Planting Evidence of Balmy Weather

With a brilliant sun in the sky for the last two days and the thermometer steadily rising, local residents who for weeks have been looking in vain for an actual arrival of spring, have taken heart.

Straw hats made their second appearance of the year yesterday when George Wignall, manager of the Marion Water Co., again appeared on the streets in summer headgear. Mr. Whynall initiated the straw hat season several weeks ago but subsequent snow storms forced him to return temporarily to more suitable headdress.

Unofficial count yesterday placed the number of straw hat wearers at two.

That O. J. Hord, Marion Township farmer and a member of the Board of County Commissioners, believes that the season is suitable for grain planting is attested by the fact that he planted 20 acres of corn yesterday. The city employes on his 40-acre farm were preparing approximately 10 acres to be planted in corn. This is reported to be the first corn planted in the northern section of the county.

Yesterday saw the mercury climb six degrees higher than it did a year ago. Yesterday's high was 78, the highest temperature of the year. The low was 55 as compared to 47 for a year ago.

Tuesday, May 8, has been fixed as the date for the examination of children of pre-school age in the Lincoln and Pearl Street school buildings, it was announced this morning. SEEMS LIKE A DREAM

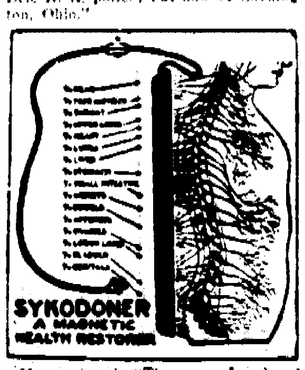
Too Wonderful To Be True? Former Policeman Fights On.

Sykodoner Attracts Bigger Crowds Than Ever—Trial Treatment Free.

"I would crawl for miles, if necessary, to impart the good news, to other unfortunate sufferers, says Mr. George Holt, former Marion policeman, and Erie R. R. police; but now of Cardington, Ohio."



He continued: "The agony I endured for a number of years, is something no human being is able to describe. It now all seems like a dream; for after three years of enforced idleness—not being able to work, I feel like one born again. No less than twelve physicians, and loads of medicine, failed to reach my case. My heart beat so hard, that it could be heard in the next room; the least exertion would cause it to flutter, fearfully. When the pain would take me, my screams could be heard for a city block. Nothing seemed to give relief. I was discouraged beyond description. Now, after the very first treatment with the Sykodoner, I could shout for joy. In fact, I cannot tell you how rejoiced I am. I have worked every day, and as much as thirteen hours a day—on the farm, since the very first trial. It is almost too wonderful to be true. People call to see me, for miles and miles. Even while eating in restaurants, and other places, I hear people discussing my case, to my amusement, as they do not know me, until I surprise them with my identity. I consider it worth inestimable wealth to me, to even have the satisfactory knowledge, that I have at last, found a true remedy. It is a real treat. Everyone in a position to do so, should avail themselves of it. It is now in Marion. Many other communities would be glad to have such an opportunity brought to their doors.

Trial Treatment Now Free

Regardless what your ailment is, or what else you may have tried before, and failed—by all means, avail yourself of this, at once—before it is too late. No drugs, surgery, serum, or rubbing. It does not treat disease—it aims at the cause of most disease—toxemia, and removes it. See the Sykodoner Man, today, at our new, beautiful office parlors, 343 N. Greenwood St., (near circus grounds) Marion, Ohio, for the most amazing phenomena of all your life. It will simply astound you with its mystery. Or, if unable to visit us, phone 2780, and one of our nurses will call at your home—without cost or obligation. Hours: Daily, also evenings and Sunday forenoons. Do a kind act, by sending this to an afflicted friend.—Adv.

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, May 3—Both the industrial and the railroad stocks moved around in an irregular and unsteady market today.

With the expectation of a 4 1-2 per cent rediscount rate to be announced after the close of the market, and a possible increase of speculative borrowing to close to $5,000,000,000 to be shown by the stock exchange's compilation later in the day, traders assumed a cautious attitude, and even the "outsider" was reported to be lightening his load. The volume of trading fell off moderately, but the professionals continued to churn up the market for the well known shares, and buying demand from the western points was well maintained from the western points was well maintained from the financial district.

Traction stocks were offered for sale in large volume, following the Federal Court's favorable decision in the seven cent fare case, for which many of the profe ionals were evidently waiting. The 50 to 100 per cent increases in market values of traction stocks since January were largely in anticipation of this decision about which the utmost confidence prevailed in the financial district. There was therefore little left to "discount" and the traction stocks ceased to be a market feature. It was even at to the listed bond market where traction securities sold in good volume at advances of one to three points.

Under the lead of General Motors the motor stocks led a moderate rally in the early afternoon. General Motors owed its new five point jump to reports of an extra cash dividend to be ordered at the director's meeting next Thursday. Hudson, Chrysler, Nash and Hupp were active and strong.

HOLDOER SENDS MARKET FOR HOGS DOWN 10 CENTS

Chicago, May 3—Demand for hogs was slack today and the market was generally 10c lower. The supply was normal but a holdover of 12,000 from the previous market made too many for the immediate outlet. Top was $10.15 in the early session with the bulk of the good hogs of all weights selling at $9.50 to $10.

Steers sold slowly and weaker but cows and heifers held steady.

Lambs were lower.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, Ill., May 3—A great spring cleaning operation went on yesterday in the grain markets. Wheat and corn both tumbled out of bed and at the close it was a question in the speculative mind whether they had yet hit the floor, according to the Herald and Examiner.

At the finish of a wild and nerve wracking day wheat was down 3¾@4½c, corn was down 2¾@3½c, oats were ⅝@1½c off, rye was 2½@3½c lower.

The market was the hardest kind of one for the former bull, uncertain whether he had overstayed the market. Prices went down slowly during the forepart of the session, like a convalescent, who feels strong, going downstairs. Late in the day they slipped and fell.

During the last half hour there was rally of less than a cent in wheat and a little more than a cent in corn. But the markets did not look strong at the close. The late upturn probably was caused by buying in against bids and other short covering.

News of spring wheat planting in Canada is beginning to have an influence on prices. The Canadian Pacific crop report said:

"On account of very late spring last April, there was a delay in seeding with planting completed only a week previous. The condition of fall sown will be materially affected by the recent cold weather."

BRITISH POSTOFFICE TO STUDY METHODS OF U. S.

London—In the hopes of improving her own service, England is going to America to study postoffice methods.

The administration of the British postoffice system has been severely criticised on economical and other grounds, and the question has been discussed in the House of Commons.

During the course of a debate there, the Postmaster General announced that he was planning a "flying visit' by officers of the British Postoffice to America to make a close study of the American telephone and telegraph service.

NOTED FRENCH PIANIST WELL AND HAPPY AT 101

Paris—Monsieur Lisbonne, of Pont Saint-Esprit, has celebrated one hundred and one birthdays and is probably one of the oldest living musicians.

More than a century of happy living has left him no infirmity. His eyes are as bright and clear as those of a twenty-year old youth, his admirable white hair thick and bushy, as well as his long beard, his fingers long and supple.

Monsieur Lisbonne is a composer as well as a musician. He has lived through the various revolutions brought about by Beethoven, Berlioz, Wagner, Debussy and Stravinsky; he has passed from the romantic harp to the twanging banjo and has been stirred by musical romances and jazz diableries.

Don't delay orders for seeds and bulbs another day. This is the rush season so don't be impatient if there is delay in receiving your order.

"Miss Marion" to Compete in Ohio Beauty Pageant

THIS year for the first time Marion is to send a representative to the Ohio Beauty Pageant at Cedar Point, an annual event sponsored by the Cedar Point management.

"Miss Marion," it was announced today, will be selected at Rainbow Gardens, east of Garfield Park on Harding Highway-E. Thursday, May 15. Arrangements for listing entries are now being made following a visit here of a representative of the company arranging for the annual pageant. Entries, it was stated may be sent to the management of Rainbow Gardens.

The pageant representative said that there are scores of attractive girls in Marion who are eligible to compete. All that is required is that they be between the ages of 16 and 25 years, are unmarried and bear a good reputation in their community.

Three Judges

The winner will be selected by a committee of three well-known local people. The girls will be judged upon beauty of face and form, personality, poise and carriage.

The one chosen to carry the title of "Miss Marion" will be taken to Cedar Point for a five-day stay in August and will have all expenses paid by the Ohio Beauty Pageant. While there she will compete with representative girls from practically every other city in the state for the title of "Miss Ohio," and should she be fortunate enough to win this title, will be given a free trip to Miami, in December, to compete for the title of "Miss America." The national pageant, formerly held in Atlantic City has been transferred to Miami this year.

While at Cedar Point, the girl who represents Marion will be elaborately entertained. All the many pleasures which the summer resort affords will be hers, without any cost, it was announced today.

Science adds a welcome new value to Armstrong Floors

Accolac finish—beauty-giving, labor-saving—features NEW patterns now on display

FORGET that floors ever lacked color and interest. Forget, too, that it was ever a task to keep floors presentable. Today local stores offer a Spring Display of the new Armstrong's Linoleum with an added feature—a lacquer finish known as Accolac.

This Accolac finish—a scientific help in caring for your floors—gives to Armstrong patterns the aristocratic, well-cared-for glow of hand-rubbed furniture. More, Accolac forms a tough, durable protection over the beauty of the linoleum. And—what is still more—Accolac stops the dirt.

Dust now gets no deeper than the surface; swept away at the first stroke of brush or mop.

Thus, not only have Armstrong's designers created new and strikingly beautiful floor effects, but science has come out of the laboratory to keep them beautiful.

* * *

"ARABESQ . . . that's something NEW, isn't it?"

Arabesq—Armstrong's different floor—is indeed new, Madam. Charming designs so cleverly applied over a rich inlaid marble base that the linoleum itself becomes a part of the pretty pattern.

Fewer things newer in floors. Fewer things prettier. And certainly, fewer things less expensive. Accolac? Yes, indeed! Armstrong's Arabesq Pattern No. 9520.

Embossed Inlaid No. 6052

EMBOSSED INLAID . . .
the floor of MAGIC texture

Fine old ashlar stone painstakingly laid by master craftsmen, even to the mortar lines pressed below the surface—so this floor seems at first glance. But there is a subtle texture, and a softness underfoot that no stone floor ever boasted. Because this pattern actually IS embossed, there is a constant—almost magic—play of light and shadow which makes the whole surface sparkle. And there's Accolac to preserve this beauty.

Let this book help you decorate

What to do first in planning decoration; pictures of model interiors; colorplates of new Armstrong designs—all contained in Hazel Dell Brown's book, "The Attractive Home—How to Plan Its Decoration." Sent on receipt of ten cents to defray mailing costs.

Religion Necessary to Maintain Democracy, Dr. Cadman Says

GIVES ADDRESS TO 1,200 HERE

Noted Preacher Discusses "The Mission of American Democracy"

BY HARRY S. ELLIOTT
Star Staff Writer

Speaking with all of the dynamic force and eloquence which rank him as one of America's greatest preachers and philosophers, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman brought a message of exceptional interest and inspiration to a Marion audience last night, taking as his subject, "The Mission of American Democracy."

The address given in the Star Auditorium as the final number of the year's lecture and entertainment course of the Harding High School senior class, was heard by approximately 1,200 persons, including a large number from out of the city.

Dr. Cadman's appearance here was one of the last on the lecture platform, according to a statement made by him a while ago. He said that he expects to bring his 40 years of lecturing to a close for the purpose of devoting his time and attention to other activities.

In addition to being pastor of the Central Congregational Church in Brooklyn, he speaks each Sunday afternoon over the radio to an audience numbering in the millions, performs his duties as president of the National Council of Churches, and writes extensively for newspapers and magazines.

First Duty of Free People

"Religion," Dr. Cadman declared in his address here, "is the first business of a free people. Democracy cannot be maintained unless based on theology."

And in speaking of religion, the famous theologian said, he referred to no particular denomination.

"Religion may have many forms but it has but one voice," he declared. The basic principles he gave as "love, justice, companionship and brotherhood."

Prevalence and progress of democracy is by no means assured, he said, calling attention to conditions which must be remedied in order to firmly establish popular government.

"Mere sentimental allusions to the flag mean nothing" he said. "Bigness is unimportant. What we want in the United States is not 100,000,000 or more people, but we do want a people craving for the moral leadership of mankind."

"We are now at the crossroads" he said. "We must determine what to do with our national strength, whether it is to be self-centered or ministerial to the world.

"You can, if you will, pitch an empire for Christ and lead the march of time to great events."

Warns Against Isolation

Dr. Cadman warned Americans against setting their country apart from the rest of the world and placing it on a standard of independence and isolation.

"We are wrong in assuming that our greatness dates back merely to July 4, 1776. All that we are and all that we have has a much more distant origin.

"Here he reviewed history, showing that Greece gave us our culture, Rome our laws and Israel our religion.

He argued for world peace and urged America to take the lead in this movement.

"Principles of right and justice should take the place of force in settling international disputes," he said.

At the same time Dr. Cadman made it clear that he favored attending to our own interests first.

"Look after the 'home town' first, then the nation and then our brethren in other lands" was his advice.

Not a Pacifist

"I am not a pacifist; I am a militarist," he stated. "Yet I wonder why nations talk peace and prepare for war. Where are the pledges of permanent peace made following the World War? Are they in cold storage or in active use on earth?"

Commenting upon recent achievements in aviation, especially the overseas flights, Dr. Cadman declared that it is yet to be determined whether these events are "harbingers of benefits to civilization or of a new conflict."

"I believe in this country and in our future more than ever before," he stated, emphasizing again that what the country needs is "great religious and moral guidance which it has largely lost during the last 10 years."

All great nations which have perished in the past have met their fate through lack of a "great religion," Dr. Cadman declared.

"America," he said, "must come again with one hand on the Book and the other on the Constitution. Having great human power, we have a right to ask of America as we would any nation on earth, what is the purpose of all it is?"

He concluded upon the long era of peace between the United States and Canada despite the 4,000 miles of unguarded territory between their countries.

Example for World

"What is being accomplished on the American continent is going to influence the world," he declared. "Here on North America we are realizing the truth of God power to manage."

Dr. Cadman referred to the successful efforts of women in affairs of the country as a hopeful sign of progress and betterment. "Man, instead of straddling the stage now, rather resembles a Plymouth Rock rooster standing on the hangrail on a rainy afternoon," he said.

In referring to the importance of love, Dr. Cadman called attention to the fact that ancient Greece, with a population no greater than Akron City, produced some of the greatest figures in history, and old England, too, with not as many people as New York City, had a similar record of production.

"Here are no impressions in history," he said. "Palestine, with less population than Ohio, gave Christ to the world."

The big nations he said, have as a rule been materialistic, while the small nations have enriched mankind.

Following the address, Dr. Cadman invited the audience to ask questions but no one took advantage of the opportunity. Following dismissal, however, a number met him and obtained his views on different subjects.

Dr. Cadman was introduced to the audience by Miss June Shelton, president of the Senior class. John Wade, president of the junior class, announced the lecture course program for next year. Music by the high school orchestra was another feature of the program preceding the Cadman address.

YALE GIVES RECOGNITION TO ART SCHOOL DONOR

New Haven, Conn.—Augustus Russell Street, who in Civil War days gave money to erect an art school building at Yale and who died without seeing more than the corner stone of the structure in place, is finally to be honored by Yale in having his name attached to that structure, which still forms an integral part of the University plant here. The Yale Corporation has decided to name the art building "Street Hall." When the new art galleries, now under construction here, are done, Street Hall will house the studios of painter and sculptors in training here.

U. S. WOMAN MAY BE "FIRST LADY" OF PANAMA

Dr. and Mrs. Jorge E. Boyd with their four daughters, Lois Elizabeth Boyd, 11 years old, on left, and the 6-year old triplets, Elena Rolfe, Mildred Stuart, and Edith Bolling. Mrs. Boyd is the former Elizabeth Bolling, niece of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, and as her husband is the administration candidate for the presidency of Panama, it seems quite likely that a daughter of the United States will be the "First Lady" of Panama.

MONTE CARLO GAMBLING FIGURES SHOW DROP

Monte Carlo—The man who beat the bank at Monte Carlo, that almost mythical person, seems to have a lot of brothers. No individual sensations were reported during the last season but the Casino report for the fiscal year showed the gross income was $360,000 less than that of 1926-27.

This resulted in a drop of $250,000 in the net income. Despite this unfavorable year a share of $20 stock won a dividend of $20, the same as for the preceding year.

GIVE BOSTON COLLEGE SAMPLES OF HANDIWORK

Boston—Two chieftains of Indian tribes in Maine, Chief Great Friend and Chief Daylight, recently came to this city to return a token to Boston College. The Redskins brought a complete collection of all the handicraft of the Penobscot tribes for the museum at Boston College.

The presentation was made by Chief Great Friend and Chief Daylight in the College auditorium before several thousand students and friends.

The Indian chiefs are from the tribe that was originally converted by Father John Rasle, S. J. The presentation of the collection was in gratitude to the Society of Jesus, whose members comprise the faculty of Boston College.

LONGER COURSE

Dental Students at O. S. U. Must Attend School Six Years

Columbus, May 8—Dental students of Ohio State University in the future will be required to take a six-year course before they will be granted a degree, a recent ruling of the College of Dentistry provide.

The new plan to be established at the start of the fall quarter, next September, lengthens the present course to the professional one by one year in which the students are eligible for graduation.

Entrance requirements at Ohio State in the dental college are recognized as being as strict as any college in the country. The rapid strides the College of Dentistry has taken toward higher scholastic attainment is shown in the fact that only seven per cent of the graduates in the past 20 years have failed to pass the state board examinations.

RECORD ENROLLMENT

O. S. U. Reserve Officers Training Corp Largest in World

Columbus, May 8—With a past record of enrollment of more than 3,000 cadets, the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Ohio State University has been recognized as the largest unit of its kind in the world, according to the word of Col. G. L. Townsend, commandant of the corps at the Buckeye College.

The Ohio State corps reached the peak in enrollment during the fall quarter of last year. At the present time there are 3,017 students enrolled which number also entails the title of the largest unit for the Ohio State corps. Freshmen lead the list of cadets with 1,505 enrolled while sophomores are second with 1,107. There are 189 juniors and 152 seniors who serve as cadet officers for the brigade.

Quite in contrast to the first corps in 1916 when there was but one officer in charge, there are now 22 U. S. Army instructors.

DEBT RETIREMENT DIVIDING SENATE

Insurgents Lining Up with Administration on Small Cut Plan

Washington, May 8—The most important fiscal issue facing the American government far beyond the warfare warfare today in the Senate fight over the new tax reduction bill.

The Senate was divided into two camps on the question of debt retirement, one faction contending that the present generation should carry the burden of paying the debt while the other favored the gradual reducing over a period involving future generations. This was the real issue at debate started over the administration plan for a $160,000,000 tax reduction and the Democratic substitute for a $500,000,000 slash.

The insurgents were reported ready to line up with the administration on the smaller reduction plan as they favor using all Treasury surpluses for the retirement of war debts. A vote on Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, sponsored the resolution, which directed the Treasury to use a $300,000,000 surplus for debt retirement.

In the 10 years since the war the public debt has been slashed from twenty-six to eighteen billion dollars. Another billion dollars will be repaid by June 30 the end of the current fiscal year. Of this nine billion dollar slash, all but a few hundred million came from general taxation, although the original debt retirement law provided that only one-half of the debt—$11,000,000,000—should be repaid by general taxation over a period of forty years. The other half was to come from foreign repayments.

MAN FOUND GUILTY ON LIQUOR CHARGE

John Cowgill Taken to Jail Pending Payment of $100 Fine

Arrested on April 4 on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor, John Cowgill, N. State-st, was found guilty of the charge in Municipal Court yesterday afternoon and fined $100 and costs by Judge W. H. Martin. He was taken to the county jail to remain pending the payment of the fine.

Cowgill was arrested on an affidavit filed by a state prohibition man who was present at the hearing that he with Police Captain Shrock and visited the Cowgill home and had found a gallon jug, or partly filled with whisky.

The case had been continued from Tuesday on motion of L. E. Myers, attorney for Cowgill, who based his motion on the grounds that because the search warrant had been served at night when it had specified a day search, it was illegal and also on the grounds that the liquor found was analyzed by a physician for Mrs. Cowgill, who had been ill with pneumonia.

DEATH OF WOMAN IS BEING PROBED TODAY

Body Shipped from Jackson County Without Consent of Officials

Jackson, May 3—Officials of Jackson County today were communicating with authorities at Chicopee, Mass., and Hampden County following the death of Miss Emma McCutcheon, 54, who died last Friday at Centerville, near here. Her body was sent to the Massachusetts town last Saturday without the consent of county officials, they reported today.

Miss McCutcheon left over $30,000, it is reported. An investigation was started, it was reported, when Miss McCutcheon's brother-in-law tried to buy a coffin from a Centerville undertaker but did not want the body to be seen.

According to Sheriff Ross, neighbors reported that the woman had been mistreated.

A grave had been dug in the Centerville Cemetery, Coroner Monahan said, but the body was hurriedly shipped to Chicopee when he was advised of the woman's death.

Boy Eight Miles From City Phones False Fire Alarm

LOCAL fire department officials today are puzzling their minds to discover in what way the fire apparatus roaring through the streets enroute to a fire would provide a thrill to a boy on a remote farm, eight miles from the city.

Shortly before 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the fire operator at the local telephone exchange, received a call from a farm home west of the city, and the voice of a boy informed her there was a fire at 140 W. Center-st. Knowing this to be in the business district and it not being her duty to investigate when fires are reported, she immediately transmitted the call to central fire department headquarters.

The apparatus from the central and No. 2 stations made the run to 140 W. Center-st, which is the Warner & Edwards store, to discover no trace of fire.

An investigation to determine from just what farm home the call came, was started at once by Fire Chief McFarland and it is expected that the identity of the boy who enjoys long distance thrills will soon be learned.

FIRE INSURANCE IS TOPIC OF SPEAKER

Kiwanians Addressed by W. J. Gillsdorf of Columbus at Noon Session

Insurance is the great common denominator of the business world, was declared by W. J. Gillsdorf, Columbus insurance man, in an address before the members of the Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Harding at noon today.

"Should this great stabilizer of business ever cease to be," the speaker declared, "business would collapse."

Much of the unpleasant feeling entertained by the public in general toward insurance companies, it was pointed out by the speaker, is due to a misunderstanding, and this misunderstanding usually results when a settlement is made in case of a loss. Should insurance companies on settling in case of a loss by fire, pay for an entirely new structure instead of replacing it with a building of the same value as is generally desired by the loser, it would develop a tendency on the part of owners to burn their buildings for the insurance, the speaker said.

Under the present plan the company replaces the destroyed building at its actual value.

Fire insurance rates, he said, are based on the class the city occupies in the rating, fixed by the fire underwriters association. There are 10 classifications the city having neither a water works nor a paid fire department being in class 10; a class nine town has no water works and a volunteer fire department; a class eight town has a water works and a volunteer fire department, class seven towns have a water works and a half paid fire department, and class six towns have both a water water works and a paid fire department. From the sixth to the first class is determined by the extent of the fire fighting equipment.

Cleveland, he said, was the only first class city in the state of Ohio, having a special automatic water equipment for fire fighting.

The dirigible is expected to cover the 1000 miles to King's Bay in between 40 and 50 hours. Its cruising speed is about 80 miles an hour, but this will be lessened greatly by expected head winds.

MORALS BETTER BUT--

Lovers-Makers Howl When School Dress Edict Is Set

Budapest, May 3—Morals are growing better in Budapest but the dressmakers are unhappy about it.

A delegation of women's tailors held a mass meeting today to protest against the recent decree of the Hungarian minister of education prohibiting high school girls from wearing anything but long skirts and blouses with high necks. The dresses are unfitting.

The dress makers complain that this wave of morality will cost them thousands of dollars and deprive them of the business of making about 50,000 new dresses this year.

The cyclone left in its wake a devastated town. The residents, already having been through the horrors of numerous earthquakes recently, fled in panic.

Buildings were demolished, trees uprooted and crops in the fields outside the town, ravaged. When the full force of the cyclone declared after 25 minutes, many persons were found to be missing.

state that can only follow agreement on a plan that will make difficult the waging of war. It is not a problem that can be satisfactorily dealt with by the churches, it is a problem of the states."

That the church of today is less powerful than a generation or so ago was contradicted by Dr. Cadman when he said:

"The modern church has grown and developed with life, has increased its effectiveness by changing methods throughout the years and stands today more powerful than ever before in the history of the world. The Gospel is the same as it was 2,000 years ago—only the people have changed, and to meet this change the church has also expanded, modernized its methods."

Needs of Church

"Externally the church's greatest need is for co-operation, union for the betterment of mankind, denomination forgotten, while internally its greatest need is for the development of a spirit of love and justice to all men."

Questioned regarding his opinion on Sunday motion pictures, Dr. Cadman was inclined to be lenient to both parties.

"Personally," he said, "I do not think motion pictures essential seven days of the week. The majority of them are not particularly elevating, not of the type that will make for the upbuilding of character and are not in addition, a thing that is essential to any day of the week. However, the problem of Sunday motion pictures is not a matter the church can decide, nor the motion picture owner either. It is a question for the people, who ministers included, should use their conscience in the matter. If they feel the particular pictures shown in their city to be of the kind that will make for betterment of the community and that the picture show is a proper place for young people on Sunday, they should by all means favor Sunday pictures, otherwise and equally emphatically, I favor their abolishment."

Numerous Activities

Dr. Cadman, in addition to his duties as pastor of the Central Congregational Church in Brooklyn, edits a daily column in some 70 newspapers of the United States as well as in papers for English-speaking peoples abroad. His column is made up of answers to questions propounded to his correspondents the world over, upon many of which he also expresses his views over the radio.

"The majority of questions asked me pertain to matters of religion and the next largest number dealing with sex relationships," he said.

Asked from what source he derived the material upon which his paragraphs are based, his simple answer was "Books."

"Nearly every problem of modern life has been pondered before—nearly every question I am asked I find to have been an issue long before the present generation reached maturity," Dr. Cadman said.

Own Experience

Questions that are of current interest, or personal, Dr. Cadman answers from his own experience, his own broad knowledge gained in his 33 years as a minister. "If of a kind not to be definitely answered by any one man, I try to throw the question open for discussion, put it in the right light, point out the approach by which the question may be answered successfully by one's own conscience," he said.

Dr. Cadman is acquainted slightly with Norman Thomas, the former Marion man recently nominated as the Socialist candidate for president. He agrees with Mr. Thomas in certain of his Socialistic views.

"Indeed there is a certain amount of the Socialist in every one of us," he said. "We're all interested in civic improvement, the living wage and the rights of the individual although our personal opinions do not take in all of the territory covered in the platform of that particular party."

After his lecture last night at the Star Auditorium, Dr. Cadman left for New York City, where tonight he is booked for an address. Last night and tonight are among the last times Dr. Cadman will mount the pulpit with his sound views from the lecture platform, for on the advice of his physician, and because of his age, he expects to retire in the near future.

RELEASE MAN HELD IN RUM CAR CASE

Lewis Ferrante Given Liberty After Companion Is Fined $1,000

A charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor filed in Municipal Court against Lewis Ferrante, of Akron arrested early Saturday morning with Joe Gallo, also of Akron, when the police found 100 gallons of whisky in a car driven by Gallo, was released yesterday afternoon and the case dismissed by Municipal Judge Martin on motion of the prosecution.

While admitting being in company with Gallo Ferrante denied having had anything to do with the liquor and as Gallo had admitted being owner of the car as well as of the liquor, the charge against Ferrante was withdrawn. Gallo is still being held at the county jail awaiting payment of the $1,000 fine administered by Municipal Judge Martin upon his plea of guilty to transporting.

ONE FATALLY HURT IN OHIO AIRPLANE CRASH

Cincinnati, May 3—Lyle Waltz, 34, who was injured together with two other persons in an airplane crash near here late yesterday died in the General Hospital here this morning.

Waltz and another man, Joseph Martin, 22, were in a plane said to be piloted by Robert Rorick, 34, when the plane went into a tail spin at an altitude of about 1,500 feet and crashed into a hollow near the Coney Island race track, near here.

FIRE TRUCK BURNS

Fighters on Way to Blaze Stumped By Own Conflagration

Evanston, Ill., May 3 — Evanston firemen know how to fight other people's fires, but when their own hook and ladder truck, enroute to a fire, broke out in flames, they were frankly stumped.

"Keep cool," quoted someone from the book of rules. But the fire kept right on burning. Just then Fire Chief A. N. Hofstetter happened along.

"What you follows need," he began, "is the fire department." Whereupon other equipment was summoned to the scene. With their private fire out, the department proceeded to answer the first alarm.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All druggists have it.

Daily Proverb—"I have often regretted having spoken, never having kept silent."

Frankly, Miss May, you haven't warmed up to us the way we hoped and anticipated.

A Paris cable says France will pay Uncle Sam $11,250,000 on her war debt in June. Every little helps.

Lady Mary Bailey, the British aviatrix, who hopped off from Croydon field, near London, March 9, reached Capetown April 30. Of course, she landed from time to time for a chat.

Mary Miles Minter, so says a Hollywood wire, is soon to marry Joseph Diskay, the Hungarian tenor. If one artistic temperament can spoil a marriage, what possible chance is there for a combination of two?

A Washington wire says a mighty lobby is being massed to put over the Boulder Dam bill, but maybe it's nothing more than a gathering of the land speculators who will be enriched should the bill become a law.

A new California law provides that a bride and groom must give three day's notice of their intention to marry before the state will issue a license to them. We assume that this is to give them a chance to sober up after deciding to marry.

The feeling of relief you experienced when you read Colonel Lindbergh's denial of the story that he had made all preparations and planned to make another flight to Europe next month, you may be assured, was general throughout the length and breadth of the country.

According to a Washington story, one of the professors of the Ohio State university has been paid $2,300 by the National Electric Light association as salary, but he will probably explain that it was merely an honorarium.

Saving and excepting that of the automobile business, the turnover from race-running and boot-legging is the second largest business in Detroit, amounting, a survey shows, to $215,000,000, annually. Take it from us, that's some infant industry, all right.

Naturally, the members of the Ohio State Medical association want to be liberal, but just as naturally they do not want the public health service, the free clinics in hospitals, contract medicine by lodge doctors and group medical service in industrial and commercial institutions carried to such a point as to take away their occupations. Even though the doctors' protest be another illustration that self-interest is the controlling factor with the most of us, we are inclined to agree with the doctors, that paternalism is being carried too far.

Six Foreign Airmen Honored.

Congress did the eminently proper thing in enacting legislation authorizing the president to award Distinguished Flying crosses to the six intrepid alien airmen who crossed the seas to come to us—Baron Ehrenfried Guenther von Huenefeld, James C. Fitzmaurice and Herman Kohl, of the Bremen; Francisco de Pinedo, of Italy, and Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, of France. Such legislation was necessary for the awarding of the decorations for the reason that the law authorizing the conferring of this particular decoration contained no provision for its award upon other than American airmen.

American airmen who have made flights to foreign lands have been so handsomely recognized by the conferring upon them of decorations of various kinds, that it is fitting that we here in America should show like honors to notable foreign airmen who make flights to this country, and certainly Distinguished Flying crosses could not possibly be more fittingly bestowed upon any fliers than the six named to be thus honored.

Those who followed the flights of De Pinedo and those of Costes and Lebrix appreciate the fact that their achievements merit the highest mark of American appreciation for notable aerial accomplishments. The exploit of the two Germans and the Irishman who made up the crew of the Bremen is so recent that all are familiar with their hazardous feat in making the east-to-west crossing of the North Atlantic by aeroplane. For our government to fail to show its appreciation of such achievements as were those of the six aviators honored by this special bit of legislation would be unfortunate under any circumstances, it would be the more so in the light of the many similar honors which have been heaped upon our airmen abroad.

The three present visiting aviators have already received their crosses at the hands of President Coolidge, opportunity being offered for the presentation during the course of their official welcome in Washington, Wednesday. The decorations awarded De Pinedo, Costes and Lebrix will be fittingly bestowed at a later date, but they carry no less honor by reason of the delay.

Congress acted in this regard up to the best traditions of American appreciation of skill, courage and fortitude.

Senator Smoot on Boulder Dam.

Much has been said for and against the Boulder dam project, but undoubtedly the most forceful assault upon it and easily the most understandable and thus the most convincing, was that of Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, in analyzing the provisions before the upper house of congress, in which he referred to the engineering plans forming the basis of the project as "preposterously impossible" and charged that it was the greatest engineering risk in history and would be if construction a measure to thousands of lives. He charged that the proposed measure was thoroughly unsound in every respect.

The senator brought out the error of the somewhat general view that the primary purpose of the measure is to provide flood control for the Imperial valley, by showing that if such were its chief purpose adequate flood protection could be afforded for not more than $15,000,000 and be effective within two years, while the proposed dam could not be constructed and placed in operation within less than ten years. The senator favors flood protection by levees and channel dredging, but urged that if a dam system must be constructed, it could be built 230 miles closer to the property to be protected at a cost not to exceed $15,000,000, instead of 300 miles away.

The Gatun dam, the Assuan dam, the Elephant Butte dam and the Almanzor dam, four of the greatest in the world, the senator pointed out, together contain a reservoir capacity of only about 3,000,000 acre feet of water, or 14,000,000 less than the 26,000,000 acre feet capacity planned for Boulder canyon.

"Do you know," asked the senator, "that you are here being asked to authorize and by our vote to approve the greatest engineering risk in history?

"Do senators know that the plan which you are asked to approve and therefor accept responsibility for is a plan that is the subject of bitter disagreement among the engineers of the government service?

"Do senators know that you are being asked to substitute for a comparatively insignificant flood measure a menace to lives of thousands of people which might result in the greatest man-made disaster in history?

"Do senators know that if we pass this bill the responsibility for this engineering experiment is squarely and wholly upon us, because the responsibility has been passed to us by the secretary of the interior?

"Do senators know that in order to provide flood control and irrigation relief, the only subjects in which we have any possible interest as federal officials, it is wholly unnecessary not only to expend more than a fraction of the money here involved, but to take any of these risks?"

It has been openly charged that the Mississippi river flood control bill, which the president estimates will cost the country, in the event that it becomes a law, $1,500,000,000, was passed through both houses of congress by a pool of its proponents and those of the Boulder dam bill, the farm relief bill and the Columbia basin bill, who are pledged to pass the other three bills named. The cost of the Boulder dam project has been estimated as high as $450,000,000, that of the farm-relief measure at $400,000,000 and the Columbia basin reclamation project at $300,000,000. If all of these bills become laws, the cost to the people of the country, it is estimated, will be $2,650,000,000.

If each bill were passed on its merit, that would be one thing, but if the four are passed, as it is charged they will be, through a combination of log-rolling and pork exchange without parallel in the history of the legislative branch of our government, that will be quite another. It was never intended by the framers of our basic law that the entire people of the country should be sacrificed for the sectional interests of the few. Such is neither the course of right nor that of justice.

The United States senate in recent years has been prone to rock far and wide for subjects of investigation. Here before it is one which cries out loudly for a senatorial probe. The president has signified his feeling that at least two of the proposed laws are outrages upon the country as a whole. Here we have one of the foremost men of the country assailing another of the bills. The fourth has been characterized time and again as unworthy. And now the charge is made that the four are to go through congress by log-rolling methods. What better lead for an investigation than this? The country should be protected from a betrayal so gigantic as this which is charged.

There's a plan afoot to give the senate more air. It's hardly necessary to state that reference is not made to the hot variety.

When professors in our state educational institutions are paid salaries by electric light associations as well as by the state of Ohio, we wonder what way they will teach Young America to shout.

Rod-carriers in Rock Island, Moline and Davenport, dissatisfied with ninety cents, have gone on a strike for a dollar an hour. Here's a chance for Illinois and Iowa educators to pull down some real money during their vacation period.

Yet I will search in vain,

"IT SEEMS TO ME I SMELL 'PORK' IN THIS BILL."

Weight an Index to Health..

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

I am sad and concerned on our care of children that at least one-third of them are underweight and undernourished. No matter where we go, whether to Fifth avenue in New York or to the slums of the cities, we find the same percentage of undeveloped children.

I can endure the sufferings of grown people with a fair degree of calmness. But when I witness the discomfort and lack of normal growth of little children I am deeply stirred.

The serious part of this kind of undernourishment is that its effects run on into adult life. Unfitness or shortage is frequently the result of malnutrition in infancy.

There are two chief causes for undernourishment. The first one relates to bad food habits. The other is the presence of some uncorrected physical defect.

Too many children have some obstruction in the breathing apparatus. In consequence, in infancy there is marked interference with nursing. Catarrhal conditions, adenoids or other definite cause for obstruction are among the factors having to do with lessened air supply.

There can not be proper assimilation of food or development of body unless there is an unfailing supply of pure air. That is one reason why ventilation is so important. The room occupied by a baby must be freshened constantly by an abundance of fresh air. It is even more important for a growing youngster to have air than it is for grown-up persons.

Unless matters like this are given attention, it won't be long before there are symptoms pointing conclusively to serious undernourishment. The child becomes irritable. The slightest effort tires. There is no endurance whatever.

Other signs are dark rings around the eyes. Instead of that wonderful complexion we admire in a sweet baby there may be waxy pallor of the skin. The mouth is open and the breathing is difficult and noisy. The glands may be enlarged.

You should weigh the infant regularly. No household is quite complete in its equipment unless scales are provided. Without regular weighing there can be no accurate knowledge of what progress is being made. There must be steady increase in weight or there is something wrong.

If there is serious undernourishment and no growth whatever, the condition demands action. A blood test may reveal a condition which will explain the failure to grow. Your doctor will explain this to you.

The temperature may be disturbed. If it is, then more concern is warranted. But find out what is wrong so that appropriate treatment can be given.

Of course, the most common cause for underweight is something wrong about the food. There can be nothing haphazard in the feeding. It must be regular. It must consist of properly mixed foods. It must be varied with the age and condition of the child.

Everything else will fail if the cause of the underdevelopment relates to the food. You should talk with your family doctor about this matter. He will examine the child and see where you have failed in your handling of the food.

There can not be satisfactory growth in height and weight unless the baby is well nourished. All the things we have discussed today have a bearing on nourishment. Heed them all.

THE ATTACK ON THE LEGEND.

It was necessary to come to America, says M. Lowenstein, the Belgian financier, in order to gain such impressionistic titles as "Potentate" and "Man of Mystery." He really does not deserve them, he declares. He did not stabilize the Belgian franc—that was the work of the statesman, Monsieur Franqui; he did not bring with him to this country a "carload" of automobiles, which would have been an aberration; he did not bring a fleet of planes. It is true that his party had considerable space on a luxurious ocean liner, and that it occupies twenty-two rooms in an expensive hotel in this city. But there are twenty-two persons traveling together, and M. Lowenstein does not consider it too splendid that they should want and have a room apiece. They do not constitute a retinue. In fact, they pay their own expenses. "There are many Americans richer than I," pleads M. Lowenstein. "Believe me! Believe me!"

Thus does Mr. Lowenstein, with a wave of the hand and a categorical denial of his right to the descriptive titles so willingly conferred, seek to destroy a legend. A legend, however, is one of the most difficult of imponderables to kill or even maim; and it is well known that imponderables offer a greater resistance than the most imperishable form of matter. The foreign legend is probably tougher than the domestic, and the continental hardier than the insular. In this hospitable land, it will find many defenders; and at a time when we are almost too pressed for a re-reading of "The Count of Monte Cristo," this Belgian Don Quixote will discover that we cling inordinately to whatever will brighten our journey from Queens plaza to Grand Central.—New York Herald Tribune.

WHY THE HOUSEHOLDER PAYS MORE.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, in a recent address in Pittsburgh, asked his hearers the following question: "Why are you—the ultimate consumers—paying $6.50 a ton for coal mined in the Pittsburgh district while the railroads pay only $1.50 a ton?"

The question, which he did not answer, evidently was asked to convey the impression that the householder is the victim of rank discrimination perpetrated by the coal operators. A thoughtful study of the question, however, tends to dispel this and reveals some interesting facts.

Murray's figures, while not exactly accurate, represent about the average prices paid by home consumers and the railroads. At any rate, the advanced price paid by the householder is easily accounted for by the profits taken by middlemen, selling agencies, jobbers, transportation agencies, retail dealers and hawkers. They add about 200 per cent. to the price at the mine. The railroads buy in enormous quantities, pay cash with the order and, in many instances, haul the coal away from the mines themselves. One locomotive burns in three hours more coal than the average householder uses in a month. Mr. Murray's insinuation is not so impressive in the light of facts.—Columbus Dispatch.

MEDAL FOR GOOD DICTION.

Giving Otis Skinner a medal for good diction on the stage ought to remind Americans of something about which they are growing more and more careless.

As Nicholas Murray Butler said at the presentation, which was made by the American Academy of Arts and Letters, we have in this country a "universal sloppiness of speech." Our language is affected so much by the many foreign tongues that we have nearly forgotten what good English diction is. Dr. Butler termed the present condition a "catarrhal babel."

In presenting the medal, Robert Underwood Johnson said that Mr. Skinner had played forty characters in seventeen Shakespearean plays, ranging from a negro to Falstaff, in which Youngstown saw him a few weeks ago. One of the great values of presenting Shakespeare is that it requires an actor to speak clearly and well or court failure. Shakespeare brings home to us beauties of our language which most never knew existed and any one who presents his plays as well as Mr. Skinner has done renders his country a very real service.—Youngstown Vindicator.

Alice in an Elevator.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"Why is it that when a person has a heavy weight in his hand riding up in an elevator, the weight lightens for a moment when the elevator stops?—E. L. K., Baltimore."

You hit upon one of the everyday things which people see without perceiving, but on which Einstein meditated so effectively that he placed his name beside Newton's. Einstein saw a man fall from a third-story window and hit on a soft spot which saved his life. Einstein was already hatching his idea that gravitation is not a force, but simply an expression of inertia, and he asked the man to describe his sensations while falling. The man replied that he had no sense of falling; on the contrary the earth seemed to be jumping up to meet him. He had no feeling of weight pulling him down.

This agreed perfectly with Einstein's "principle of equivalence," which is finely illustrated by what occurs in an elevator. When the car starts upward the passengers feel an increase of pressure on their feet, just as if several pounds had suddenly been added to their weight. If the elevator increases its speed this sensation continues, the pressure on the feet increasing as long as the upward motion is accelerated. But if the motion becomes uniform and the sense of pressure ceases, and the passenger regains his normal weight. This could be proved by standing on the platform of a weighing machine placed on the floor of the car.

Now, if the car suddenly stops immediately the passenger feels a lightening of his weight. If the car were going fast enough when the stoppage occurred he would be lifted off his feet by the inertia of motion stored up in his body. It is this inertia that causes the weight in your hand to lighten when the car stops, for everything in the car experiences the same effects.

Now, if you begin your experiments at the top of the elevator shaft instead of at the bottom you get the same effects in the reverse order. As the car starts to drop a part of your weight disappears, and if the car falls freely your weight will entirely disappear—at least, that is what would occur if the fall was in a vacuum. You would then be as "light as a feather, and lighter, for gravitation would be exactly balanced by motion. If you jumped up off your feet you would not sink back again, but would remain suspended. If you let go of the weight in your hand, it would not fall to the floor of the car, but would remain floating beside you.

But the lost weight would be suddenly regained on striking the ground.

In short the famous "Alice" or the "Wonderland" adventures might obtain some new sensations inside an elevator that would be almost as astonishing, in their way, as anything she found on getting through the looking glass.

You now ought to see what Einstein calls his principle of equivalence. When a body falls freely it moves at the rate of thirty-two and a fraction feet-per-second per second, i. e., during each second it falls it gains thirty-two feet of velocity. A man in a box falling at that rate does not feel the motion. But if the motion is slowed up the man begins to have weight and feels the pressure of his feet on the floor, just as if gravitation were then and there created.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, May 3—It is the claim of [illegible] experts that New York has extremely few well-dressed men. London far surpasses this metropolis in the elegance of gentlemen's attire. Hollywood, in proportion to population, is said to be the best-dressed American city from a masculine viewpoint.

The theory is advanced that the New Yorker's wardrobe is never complete. The excuse is made he hasn't enough closet space. What the New York dandy wears is up to the fashion standard, but it lacks variety and is rarely complete.

According to best authorities in New York and London, the well-dressed man should have twelve business suits, one braided frock coat to be worn with striped trousers and silk hat, two dinner suits—one double and one single breasted—and full evening dress.

He should have five overcoats, one for spring and one for evening wear, fifteen pairs of shoes, three house robes, one dozen pairs of pajamas, twenty-four daytime shirts, a half dozen dress shirts, twelve walking sticks, three dinner and three full-dress vests.

Too, he should have two pairs of house slippers, at least fifty neckties for business wear and a half dozen each of dinner and full dress ties, four business hats a derby, silk and opera hat, a dozen pairs of gloves, two dozen pairs of socks and two sets of shirt studs.

Also four pairs of every-day cuff buttons, three mufflers, thirty-six handkerchiefs, two suits of underwear—I'm beginning to feel naked as a jay bird—three pairs of hose supporters, a day and evening cigaret case and the same thing in imported cigar lighters.

These are essentials—bare necessities, as it were. And, of course, you can add to the ensemble as you please. Nothing is said about an umbrella, so it is supposed a fashionably dressed gentleman is not supposed to go out in the rain. He might not know how to get back.

* * *

The idea that a gentleman must have such a complete wardrobe is all moist. As one who worries the overdraft department spends more than is necessary for habiliments, it seems to me the neatest and best-dressed men are those who make scant, but careful selections but know how to wear them. That is an art. men with bountiful wardrobes rarely attain.

* * *

There are a number of men who go abroad on annual shopping sprees to replenish their wardrobe. While most of their clothes are purchased in America, they like to pick up a few tweeds in Savile Row, some scarves from off the Place Vendome, and flashy trunks along the narrow strip of the Rue de la Paix.

* * *

Every man is more or less "clothes conscious," even if he does not admit it. He has a secret ambition to resemble those nonchalant and natty figures of the magazine clothes ads. And the only man I ever saw in real life to attain this sartorial splendor is Adolphe Menjou, the upper stickler of the screen dressing-rooms.

One of the millinery designers for a fashionable establishment designed a stark ornament for ladies' hats that made the entire trade clap their hands in glee. Not one was sold. Prospective customers, it was said, looked upon it with superstition or something.

A taxicab company is withdrawing half of its fleet of night cabs, which would seem to indicate that nocturnal frolicking is not what it used to be. Or maybe people just go places but don't go home.

One little addendum on styles for men: Please leave the hall quietly. Dress shirt cuffs for men have for several years had square corners. The new decree is they must be rounded and—like that—a lot of perfectly good shirts are out of date.—Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Some folks pride themselves on their "hunches." They trust their impulses, their snap judgment, and their first impressions. Hunches and snap judgment may sometimes be right, but usually they are wrong. Mistakes are mostly made through haste, not through leisure. Look back over the way you have come and see if most of the mistakes you have made have not been the errors of impulse, the errors of quick impression and quick action.

A lady once complained to Joseph Addison, English essayist, that he took but little part in the conversation. Addison replied: "Madam, I have put nine-pence in ready money, but can draw for a thousand pounds."

And so it is that we will find many who are not talkative, who take but little part in the conversation, really have the most to say. They can draw almost inexhaustibly on the resources of the mind but it is not their disposition to show off.

* * *

The old historian, Plutarch, when asked what boys should learn, said: "That which they will use when men."

The trouble is that men do not use enough what they learned and what they thought as boys what they hoped as boys. The idealism of youth too quickly fades. Most men are too practical.

* * *

Nothing new about "pep talks." Don't imagine they were invented so recently as luncheon clubs or community chest drives. Old Agis, king of Sparta about 400 B. C., was wont to pep up his troops by saying: "The Spartans do not inquire how many the enemy are, but where they are."

George Babbit himself couldn't do better than that.

* * *

It was an ancient king who exclaimed he had no stronger garrison than the affection of his people. So with all men in position of leadership. They can not command real loyalty through fear. They can not command respect by force. The only loyalty that has value is the loyalty inspired by affection.

AVIATOR PLANS LONG HOP IN TWO JUMPS

Will Go from Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm, Sweden, by Greenland

New York, May 3—Bert Hassell, a big blonde aviator of Rockford, Ill., was in New York City today completing arrangements for his contemplated flight of 4,200 miles from Rockford to Stockholm, Sweden, by way of Greenland. This far north route, in his opinion, "is the most feasable way to cross the ocean to Europe."

"The longest stretch of water that I will have to span is 548 miles, a fact that obviously cuts down the danger of coming down in mid-ocean," said Hassell. "This is quite a contrast from the 1,800 miles of water that must be crossed in flying other transatlantic routes.

"I am going to try and make Stockholm in two jumps. I will hop off from Rockford the latter part of June or early in July for Mount Evans, Greenland, a distance of 2,100 miles, and the only contemplated stop. From Mount Evans I will take off for Stockholm, an additional 2,100 miles."

Hassell will be accompanied by another pilot whose identity has not been disclosed. Before taking off from Rockford Hassell will be in radio communication with Prof. William H. Hobbs of the University of Michigan who for the past four summers has conducted a meteorology station at Mount Evans.

GIRLS WITHDRAW

Not Likely To Take Part in Meet After Pope's Statement

Rome, May 3—There were indications today that some of the girl athletes entered in the Fascist field sports beginning tomorrow may withdraw as a result of the deep displeasure expressed by Pope Pius XI over young women taking part in public athletic contests.

The pontiff's disapproval was voiced in a letter to Cardinal Pompieli, vicar of Rome. He deplored the holding of the first athletic competition for girls in Rome saying:

"The Roman bishops must all deplore that, after 20 centuries of Christianity, Rome is showing less respect for girls than pagan Rome did, for pagan Rome excluded girls from athletic competitions."

The pontiff explained, however, that he believed rational exercise should be followed by women for the benefit of their health.

Enough people can be offended by bad taste in advertising to lose some money.

Picture of a man about to drive a car faster than he ever has before

He's about to try out a Flying Cloud of 1929, this man you see here. He's going to drive a motor car faster than he ever has before.

It won't be simply because this Flying Cloud will easily hit a higher speed than any car he ever owned.

But he can step on the gas and the front end won't shiver when the speedometer flicks from seventy up.

He'll have brakes that will stop him more quickly and gently than those on the old "bus." The steering wheel will lie quietly in his hands—and straighten out automatically if he has to round a curve.

There won't be any bumps in the road, no matter how fast he goes.

And if he wants to pass a car ahead, he'll learn a few things about acceleration that aren't taught by most automobiles.

If you don't believe it, here's what you can do . . .

Come down and take the place of the man in the picture. Make a Flying Cloud of 1929 do all the things we've talked about.

In your hands she'll travel faster than any other car you ever drove. Tackle the highest hills and the roughest roads you know. Open up the throttle on the longest straight stretch you can find.

Suffered Severe Stomach Trouble After Each Meal

Konjola Produced Amazing Change Over Entire System, Says Dayton Lady

MRS. AUDREY DAVIS

"I suffered many health troubles, especially from my stomach and Konjola completely ended my miseries so that I am in the best of health," said Mrs. Audrey Davis, 917 East Herman street, Dayton, Ohio.

"Everything I ate caused me to bloat up with gas and become very dizzy. A heavy lump seemed to form in my stomach after meals and I would belch up bits of undigested food. Finally my kidneys became affected and I did not get the proper rest because I had to rise several times every night. All during the day I would have awful pains across the small of my back that made it impossible for me to bend over. Besides this trouble I also had poor blood circulation.

"Finally a friend advised me to get Konjola and when I started taking this medicine it went right to the source of my troubles. Konjola regulated all the stomach organs and drove the poisons from my system. Now I can eat anything without the reoccurence of my former troubles. Now my kidneys are in perfect condition and I never suffer because of them. The circulation of my blood is normal and I am feeling better in every way—all due to the powers of Konjola."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

Marion Eagles last night formed part of the group of approximately 1,500 Eagles from central Ohio who gathered at Columbus for a meeting in honor of L. V. Westerman, Seattle, grand worthy president of the order.

Sixty-two members of the local lodge, including the drum corps, made the trip to Columbus in a special C. D. & M. car. Others went in automobiles.

As the feature of the meeting 200 candidates were initiated at ceremonies held in the Elks Temple. The local drum corps led the parade from the Eagles home on Highest to the Elks Temple on E. Broadst.

Westerman and a number of other national officers were in Columbus this week arranging for the national convention which will be held there during the week of Aug. 6. According to announcement today national headquarters for the convention will be established in the Deshler-Wallick Hotel. Headquarters of the state aerie, of which John A. WARNS AGENTS

Dry Administrators Told Not to Investigate Jurors

Washington, May 3—Prohibition administrators were instructed today by Commissioner J. M. Doran not to make investigations of jurors who might be called to try dry cases.

The action followed congressional criticism of Administrator John D. Pennington of Pittsburgh, who sent out a questionnaire to determine the character, wealth, religion and political affiliations of prospective jurors.

"The duty of the prohibition bureau is to investigate liquor violations, prepare cases and make arrests, but not to pry into the private affairs of beliefs of jurors," Doran said.

'The Understanding Heart'

A Story of the California Forests

BY PETER B. KYNE

CHAPTER 39

GARLAND had listened with alert interest to this unexpected exposition of a jaybird's philosophy: in the course of this man who dwelt in the wilderness he felt little, futile, and ignorant. Bob Mason resumed.

"I want to be civilized. Don't think I want money—about your ability to support your species by marrying a woman to keep her in idleness, to deny her sufficient interest in life to make her worth the living. Don't make your whole work time on the road to eternity. Even if you do she'll hate you.

"Take the woman of your choice and your love for a mate, not a modern one. Monica Dale will make the battle of life with you. . . . Oh, yes, I know she's restless, that she thinks she wants a taste of a life she has never known. Marry her, man, and make her forget her futile aspirations behind her. Give her children to think about—give her to perform a task that is never performed.

"She's lonely and afraid of life, if the truth were known. Oh, well, I suppose you know your own business and I'm preaching. Forgive me for my egotism; talking helps me forget. I'm mighty uncomfortable. You've been very kind to me, Garland; I owe you a debt. I shall always be glad I can never repay. You're a human being, not a human animal."

"And is that why you wanted me to marry Monica, Bob?"

Mason nodded.

"Thank you."

"Are you going to do it?"

"Perhaps. I hope so."

"Cease dealing with yesterday and today. Think only of tomorrow. Make up your mind that you are."

"But Monica has something to say about that."

"You're wrong. She has nothing to say. No woman has the hardihood to withstand a clean, decent gentleman who will not be denied. Don't be civilized, I tell you. Take your woman! Find the mother for your children and then take her. You're the leader of this projected partnership; you're the one to make decisions. Whoever permits the woman to decide is a weakling, and I've noticed he is usually treated as one—by women!

"The women who are striving for a equality, who think they are equipped to lead, the lawyer women, the female politicians, the champions of their sex, the defenders of the new faith for women, are flunking women's most glorious function. They aren't marrying and having fine, healthy, wonderful babies! They are the unsexed members of their sex. They make the world neuter."

"I love Monica Dale," Mason went on softly, "but never would it be possible for me to give her the quality of love I gave to Kelsey Harrington. If I could be free again and my honor clean and untarnished, I would ask no greater blessings of God than to dwell with Monica Dale the remainder of my days.

"I couldn't feel for her the wild thrill of a passionate love. That sort of things burns itself out, and when only the embers are left one's heart breaks with disillusionment. It is love without affection I want deep, abiding affection, a fine tolerance; I want honesty and loyalty and comradeship and understanding. That is true love—the love that endures. Oh, Lord, To be tied to a lonely, disillusioned woman, beating her poor wings against the cage that men call home."

"And yet," Garland reminded him, "if you had never known that one wild thrill that Kelsey Harrington aroused in your man's soul, you would have missed it all of your days."

"Yes—once to every man, I dare say. If I have known the extreme of misery I have also known the extreme of happiness. I can never forget that. I do not want to, and that's why I prefer to go on as I am rather than wreck and ruin the author of that best happiness. For she was happy with me once."

Garland was mystified. "I don't see how you and Monica came to miss each other so widely when your paths crossed so frequently. Bob, you were it always as smart as you are now."

"We live and learn," said Bob Mason, "and most of us live a long time and learn slowly. I think I'll try to sleep. Go out into the living room and keep Monica company. She's heavy-hearted over something and it isn't Uncle Charley. It isn't natural for youth to grieve when old age departs. Something is troubling her; presently I think she'll tell you what it is."

Anthony Garland was not destined, however, to be the recipient of Monica's confidence that night. Like most great souls she scorned to parade her troubles; she preferred silence now, as Garland instantly divined when he attempted to engage her in conversation, in the hope of diverting her mind from its gloomy channels.

So he repaired to her kitchen and with the neatness and dispatch of his training, set about the preparation of the evening meal.

While peeling potatoes—a task singularly conducive to thought—it occurred to him that he was in for an unpleasant half-hour with Chief Ranger Casey. He would be on the carpet on two counts. He had abandoned his position as leader of the fire fighters in his sector, and by the time the sheriff should arrive with the nurse to relieve him of the responsibility of first assistant to Monica Dale he would have two and a half days of inexplicable absence from duty to explain to his superior.

Casey would want to know why he had not put in his time reestablishing telephonic communication with the Ranger Headquarters and making arrangements for the rebuilding of the Tantrum Meadows station.

"Of course," he decided, "I can tell Casey I came up here to aid Monica Dale, found Uncle Charley helpless on her hands and in common decency had to help her out. But that confounded busybody of a wife of his will check up on the elapsed time and suggest questions for her husband to ask me; and when it is discovered—as it is bound to be—that Monica had Bob Mason here, that I knew it and helped her to care for him without reporting his presence to Casey, I imagine I'll be out of a job. I understand Casey is a martinet for discipline. . . . Well, what is to be will be."

He glanced out into the living room at the girl, slowly rocking the baby to sleep after having fed it. It occurred to him that her days with the Forest Service were numbered, should it be discovered that she had harbored Bob Mason. It seemed scarcely possible that the secret could be kept, and Garland wondered what would become of her when the blow fell.

To whom could she turn? Certainly not to him. Even if she should be willing to marry him, he lacked the courage to ask her to share the mean poverty that would be her lot as his wife. He was in debt; his salary was just sufficient to enable him to live with the strictest economy and save something toward the payment of his debts, and he had long since calculated that it would be two years before his grub should end.

"I dare say she hasn't enough funds to last her six months," he soliloquized. "She has the only position in this country she is qualified to hold, and if she loses that she will be helpless. In a city she could not survive save as a domestic servant. And she isn't the servant class. She has blood back of her. In the training school for nurses she would probably find a refuge; she doesn't know anything of bookkeeping or stenography, I'm sure, so she could not earn her living in an office. No, I cannot ask her to marry me. She wants escape from the San Quentins—and marriage with me would only be another shackle holding her in an environment which has grown repugnant to her. How terrible life is! How sad is the lot of some who deserve nothing but the happiness life should offer."

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Madge Gets a Mysterious Invitation Sudden Shock

LILLIAN'S admonition sent me to my bed with a sense of responsibility weighing me down.

"More than you think may stand or fall with the deciphering of that code," she had said, and I knew that she did not speak idly. But I was too weary to worry about anything very long. My nights's vigil over the cryptic characters, my fright at the approach of the mysterious men, my joy when they revealed their identity and my terror at my father's condition had combined to exhaust me.

It was nearly noon when I awakened, refreshed and with a psychic little conviction that sooner or later I should be able to discover the secret hidden in the characters I had copied from the paper hidden in the miniature of Princess Olga. I took a needle ice shower, dressed and tapped at Lillian's door.

She opened it instantly and greeted me with an approving glance.

"Fit as the well known fiddle!" she pronounced. "Had your breakfast?"

"Not yet."

"I'll go down with you and drink another cup of coffee. I never can resist Katie's fresh coffee. Allen's lurking around there somewhere, ready to dash upstairs to cover if a stranger comes into the office. He'll be good for a cup, too. I never know him to fail to get up and beg for one when he smells it brewing."

"You two probably are the champion coffee fiends of the world," I told her, smiling, as she tucked her arm into mine and we went down to the kitchen together.

Katie was royally accommodating as she always is over my breakfast and beamed at Lillian's request for coffee. And then we were in the dining room with Allen Drake's tall figure advancing toward me.

He had changed very little in the years since I had seen him. I told myself, as I held out my hand to greeting to the brilliant secret service agent whose cool criticisms of the mental abilities of women had so often aroused me to futile wrath against him. His tall figure was still straight as an arrow and his keen well-cut features were no older in appearance than they had been when we had worked together and I had been torn between intense admiration for his brilliance and resentment for the attitude he took toward me, that of a man friendly and mirthful my books, but almost openly contemptuous of my mentality.

"Ah, Mrs. Graham!" He bent and kissed my hand with the indolent leisurely grace that is his. "This is indeed a great pleasure to see you again. I did not have time to tell you so last night."

"I am glad you can be here," I replied simply. "But I am so anxious. What do you think of my father? Lillian tells me that he is still sleeping."

"I stole into his room not half an hour ago, and he was sleeping soundly. I do not think you need to be alarmed. A rest will set him up again, I am sure."

"Thanks, Allen," Lillian interposed. "Now she can eat her breakfast."

But I was not destined to finish it without interruption. As I was drinking my last cup of coffee Katie told me that someone must see me in the kitchen, and when I went out there I found Jim waiting for me with eyes curiously excited.

"Please, Mis' Graham, will you come out right away to the barn?" he said, and without waiting for my reply turned and hurried out of the kitchen. There was something so compelling in the manner of his request that I immediately followed him. Upon rounding the corner of the barn Jim stopped, and I saw the red-headed man from the shack standing just inside the barn door.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

I am glad I am not a woman and the mother of a family. Because I would suffer and so would my family when spring came and it was time to clean house. When I had let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth this morning and had fed my face my mother made me go upstairs and lug all the empty ketchup jugs down out of the attic where she had made me put them as soon as they were empty, and I would get out of thought we had et so much ketchup. Then she had me go downstairs and bring up all the cans of fruit, so that she could go down cellar and scrub all the shelves, and make me sprout the potatoes, and throw away the rotten cabbages and apples. I swiped a two quart jar of gooseberries and my mother didn't miss them I to k them upstairs and hid them in the attic. I like gooseberries better than anything—except Vonnie, but she is a girl and can't be et. Though she looks like she could.

After that we went down to the pond to see if there was any bullheads swimming around close to the shore like there always is in spring. I hollered to the Lost Bag of Tripe if he wanted to see a bullhead, and he came running and I pointed to a place in the water and he leaned over the side of the dock and looked and all he saw was himself in the water. I told him that was the biggest bullhead anyone had ever seen, and he appreciated the insults and said, "Thomas Aristides is the queen of the May." I went to soak him and he ducked and grabbed both of my ankles and jerked them and I got down so hard that he was half way up the hill before I knew where I was at. Pickles threw a rock at the Lost Bag of Tripe and he began to holler so loud I thought my mother would hear him, and then he was gone over the top of the hill.

After a minute here came my ant and hollered for me to come home, and when we all got there the Lost Bag of Tripe was there bellering and he said I hit him in the back with a rock, and I said I didn't and the whole bunch said I didn't. My mother pulled up his shirt and there was a mark on it and she told me to get the anarchy and I acted like I was excited and got my grandfather's bottle of glue. She made me rub it on the Lost Bag of Tripe's back, and never noticed, because Pickles was telling her it was him that chunked. So then the Lost Bag of Tripe tucked his shirt in and we went to school. I bet he will have to wear his shirt till it wears off. We tried to get him to go swimming after school, but he wouldn't. I would like to get hold of his shirt and chun him.

It is pea planting time. The better wrinkled sorts can go in now without danger.

ON THE Streets of Marion

WITH STAR STAFF

MOVING AHEAD

TRAVELERS happening into Marion at this time are certain to get the impression that they have run across an exceptionally thriving community. Especially so should their entrance be made from the west along Center st.

Signs of prosperity and progress are unmistakable. Marion's main thoroughfare does not furnish a view that would tend to inspire artistic temperaments but it is a scene certain to stir up enthusiasm in a person who sees beauty in commercial activity.

With the streets being prepared for widening and repaving, several new building projects under way and other evidences of improvement and expansion the setting is one which promises great things for the future.

All of this constitutes probably the most decisive development that has ever transpired to bear out the prediction that before the lapse of many years Center st will be built up solidly with business blocks from the uptown district to the railroads.

But the activity is not to be confined solely to Center st. A movement is already under way to bring about improvements in the uptown section which will prevent Marion from becoming a "one street town". Should paving and light projects recently proposed to City Council go through, new business blocks are practically assured for Main st and Center st in the uptown business district, according to authoritative predictions.

Home building is on the increase in various parts of the city, adding to the list of activities which seem to furnish unquestionable proof of Marion's entry into a new forward moving era.

TRAFFIC

A PROMINENT authority on automobile transportation recently made the declaration that Sunday traffic is not the most dangerous of the week. In advancing this view, he took issue with opinions which have prevailed generally ever since motor traffic became a serious problem.

Any one who ventures into the uptown section of Marion in an automobile on Saturday night will be inclined to agree with this estimate of the Sunday situation. Motoring for pleasure can not possibly include Saturday night driving in this city.

All classes of drivers apparently are on the streets at that time. There are the inefficient, the careless, the speeder and the fellows who soak up a generous supply of White Mule before starting to zig-zag through the crowded thoroughfare.

Parking places are at a premium, only those who reach the uptown section early being able to find space for their vehicles. In that connection, it is generally conceded that with the number of automobiles in use increasing steadily, the time is near at hand when every progressive city will be required to provide additional parking facilities.

Just how this will be done is a problem that at the outset appears baffling, for practically no cities have surplus space available.

The problem could be solved, of course, by persons living in the city leaving their automobiles at home on Saturday nights and allowing outsiders to use the parking space. But no such concession is likely. The average automobile owner refuses to walk up town, even though he may live only a few squares away and in spite of the fact that walking is a rare pleasure in comparison with piloting a machine through the Saturday night maelstrom.

MANY QUALIFIED

MARION is scheduled to have a representative in the Ohio Beauty Pageant at Cedar Point this year.

Should all of the girls and young women qualified for the competition be enlisted here, Marion would be likely to win the beauty title. Few cities, if any, have a larger share of feminine pulchritude than our own home town.

But to induce a community's fair maidens to try for the pageant honor is a difficult undertaking. This is especially true in cities the size of Marion and smaller, according to the statement of a representative of the pageant promoters.

They expect to overcome this difficulty here, however, as they have in other communities. In Mansfield recently, there were more than 50 in the competition.

With an entry list that large or larger in Marion, this city will be certain of making a strong bid for the state beauty crown in the final competition at Cedar Point, the pageant promoters say.

CIGARS FOR VOTES

EVEN political campaigning has undergone a change, along with transformation wrought in other lines of activity as the result of modern evolution.

Among the vanished political accessories is the old-time campaign cigar. It is rarely seen in Marion County or any other Ohio Community. Possibly that is one of the reasons for the average span of human life being prolonged. There were some good campaign cigars, but as a rule the candidate who handed them out was lucky if the voters lived long enough to go to the polls.

Election laws prohibit distribution of gifts of any description for the purpose of garnering votes. That, however, has had little to do with the cigar custom being shelved.

In Marion County the population has grown to such an extent that a cigar campaign can not be extensive enough to yield results. The candidate must build up his support at the polls through organization and advertising.

The cost of the modern cigar is also a formidable bar to the old-time custom. When candidates here sought to win the support of the electorate by entertaining it with free nineties, a fairly good grade of smokes sold for five cents each. Now the politically ambitious citizen passing out the five-cent brand would be fortunate if he escaped being jailed for homicide, let alone having a chance of election.

All early vegetable seed should be in the ground. Choose a few hills of deep-planted beans. They might escape the borers.

A Famous Authority's Rule

By Ruth Brittain

Some specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, sour stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of every-day use. It regulates baby's system, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

A word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty cent bottles contain three times as much as the dollar size.—Adv.

Film world says most appealing charm is smooth skin

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Speaking eyes, enticing lips, beautiful hair—all these the movie star may have but they avail her nothing, say directors, if she is not possessed of smooth skin. "Studio Skin" must be exquisitely smooth for Kliegs lights are all-revealing in the close-ups.

Herbert Brenon, director for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, says, "The most appealing single beauty a girl can have is certainly exquisitely lovely skin." And all Hollywood agrees that every actress who has become a star has had skin of exceptional loveliness.

Nine out of ten stars find Lux Toilet Soap invaluable for smooth skin. Betty Bronson, enchanting young star, enthusiastically declares, "I find this lovely soap is wonderful for my skin."

All the big film studios have placed Lux Toilet Soap in their dressing rooms, which indicates clearly enough how definitely they value smooth skin. Lux Toilet Soap is made by Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.
